Adoption of Code to Govern Employment of Domestic Workers Urged Here

Household workers in Princeton—"domestics"—have historically been a quiet, often exploited sub-stratum of the community, seen and relied upon, taken for granted, but almost never heard.

It looks as though there may be a change. A new organization has been formed called Princeton Household Technicians, affiliated with a national organization called the National Committee on Household Employment.

About 20 women attended the first meeting earlier this spring. For a time, they gathered every week (a meeting at the Princeton Youth Center has been scheduled for this Wednesday evening) but meetings will now be held less frequently as the women begin to organize and make plans.

The Joint Civil Rights Commission is the sponsoring agent in Princeton, and the women have been working with Joan Hill, executive director of the Commission. Harriet Banks has been chosen chairman, Karin Slaby, executive director of the Princeton Housing Authority and Oneta Campbell, long active in civil rights affairs in Princeton, have been elected Community Resource People.

"Several things we'd like to accomplish," Ms. Hill begins. "We've had a 'Skills Bank' here at the Civil Rights Commission for a year, but we'd like to set up a separate skills bank for household workers. We'd advertise in the papers—setting down how many days and hours workers wanted, what the salary would be, experience level and so on. People could call me at the Commission office, as a central point. For example, a worker who knew someone who needed $3-$4 an hour, four days a week, would have a central place to share that information. They would help each other."

Mrs. Slaby hopes that specific guidelines, set down by the national organization, can be used as a foundation for household employment in Princeton.

"Criteria should be established and job limits defined, just as they are for office work," Mrs. Slaby believes. "The employer-employee relationship is so often a bad one, with household workers, and if firm guidelines are understood from the start, the whole relationship could improve."

A ten-point national code suggests firm agreement between worker and employer on wages, lunch and break times, annual raises, transportation, Social Security, number of vacation days, paid holidays, number of days sick leave per year, duties and probation period.

The code also suggests detailed agreements between live-in workers and the employer. Live-in workers are the ones most often exploited, Ms. Hill believes, because they get room and board and because they are around the house and available.

Foreign girls are in this category, although there are fewer in Princeton now than there were half a dozen years ago. Most household workers, in Princeton as elsewhere, are black.

One of the biggest complaints, Ms. Hill has learned, surfaces at in-

Bohen Easily Captures Democratic Nomination
Fenwick, Kean Contest Goes Down to the Wire

Fred Bohlen easily swamped his five Democratic primary opponents Tuesday to become the Fifth Congressional District's Democratic candidate by a three-to-one margin. At press time, he had swept in 7,104 votes, compared to 2,426 for his nearest rival, Paul J. Krebs.

On the Republican side, where Millicent Fenwick and Thomas Kean both sought the nomination, Mrs. Fenwick was ahead at press time by about 60 votes, each candidate polling in the mid-12,000s. It was an unexpectedly tight contest, and Fenwick headquarters said they expected a victory, if it came, to be close.

In the Fourth Congressional District, of which Princeton was once a part, Frank Thompson won the Democratic nomination over David Crabel, and prepared to seek his 11th term in Congress, opposed by Republican Henry Keller.

Late Tuesday night, with all but eight small municipalities reporting, Mr. Bohlen had carried every part of the Fifth except the home-towns of his opponents.

Incomplete district-wide totals were as follows:

Fred Bohlen	7,104
Paul J. Krebs	2,426
John Lynch	1,628
Nina McCall	1,505
Herbert Karansky	655
Gertrude Dubrovsky	503

Princeton Vote. In Princeton, resident Fred Bohlen swept both municipalities.

There was no primary contest in either Borough or Township municipal races, but all candidates polled courtesy votes. For Borough Council, the Democrats turned out to give Nelson van den Blink 557 votes and Murray Medvin, 549. Republicans cast 354 votes for Charles St. John and 339 for Maay Stewart Allen.

There was a heavy courtesy Democratic vote in the Township also. Incumbent Margaret Broadwater received 797 votes and Floyd Rhodes 784. Republican challengers Elizabeth Hutter took 552 and John McGee, 545.

In the Township's 12th district, which includes Fitzrandolph Road, Faculty Road and the Hibben Magie apartments, there were no votes whatever cast for the two Republican candidates. The two Democrats tallied 39 (Broadwater) and 42 (Rhodes) here.

Back in the Fifth Congressional race, the other Democratic candidates scored as follows in Princeton:

Princeton's voters turned out in somewhat larger numbers than anticipated. Of the Borough's 5,597 registered voters, 1,161 voted—about 20%. In the Township, 1,844 of the 8,164 registered voters went to the polls—about 23%.

FETE RECORDS BROKEN
Profits Up 10 Per Cent. "A Honey of a Fete," as the 21st annual Princeton Hospital Fete was called, proved to be just that. By the time the last of the estimated 45,000 visitors straggled from the Fete grounds Saturday, the army of Fete volunteers could finally rest on their laurels of record and noteworthy accomplishments.

Record sales of cotton candy; heroes sold out by 2; 1,800 chicken dinners sold by 3; enough salads sold to consume 130 pounds of lettuce; 100 dozen donuts sold by 1:30; hot dogs and hamburgers sold out by 4; the hors d'oeuvres section depleted of tiropetes and mushroom croustades before 10; family casseroles all sold by 2; and 1,000 visitors to the antique car show.

The best report of all was on the profits, which are expected to be 10 per cent higher than last year, enough to keep the Medical Center at Princeton in step with inflation.

Some of the happiest Fete participants were not even at the Washington Road Fete fields. Mrs. Helma Bush, of 391 Nassau Street, was away for the weekend. But the raffle ticket she bought the previous Wednesday from raffle committee chairman Mary Andresen on Palmer Square proved to be the winner of the Ford Mustang.

Mrs. Robert Mellinger, 32 Evergreen Circle, was up on the Cape with her husband when her ticket was drawn for the men's racing bike. She expects to trade it for a woman's model at Tiger Auto. Betty Nora of New Brunswick won the woman's bike.

Standing Room Only. One winner who was present was Miss Allison Pell, of 697 Rosedale Road. The 14-year-old student at Stuart Country Day School bought 12 chances at 10 cents apiece for the 100-pound giant mouse, which is nearly 10 feet tall. Now it's standing-standing?—in her bedroom.

The best sellers in the auction tent were the beaver coat, scuba equipment, bureaus, cameras, silver, the Oriental rug and a bird bath. Like most other features of the Fete, it was SRO in the auction tent right up until the Fete's closing.

come-tax time. A household worker, who hasn't had income-tax withheld from her check as an office worker would have, suddenly is clobbered with $600 or $700 tax to pay.

"We'd like to try a kind of hank, like a credit union. A worker would put so many dollars in each week, on her own, and it would earn interest. Then, at income-tax time, she could withdraw it."

Ms. Hill also hopes she can find other work, for younger household workers who really don't like the idea of a lifetime at that job.

"I'd like to get them out of it, if they don't like it. But there are problems. New Jersey's employment training pays you, and I had a household worker who was accepted by them, but she couldn't take the offer because her husband has a job, and that disqualified her! Can you imagine! I've got her training now, with a local Princeton firm."

Age No Barrier. Older women, 50 and up, can be trained into other jobs, too, and Ms. Hill has found such office jobs as filing, input-output operator and collator for seven older women in the past year.

"Sweating and working for eight hours a day at $1.75 an hour—who wants it!" Ms. Banks exclaims. She herself has what she regards as a good housekeeping position, with sick-time and vacation-time. But she is unusual.

"Money is the top problem," both she and Ms. Hill agree. As of May 1, the minimum wage—and it applies to household workers—was raised to $2. A common rate of pay in Princeton is $1.75 to $1.80 an hour and this has been the range paid by Princeton University's eating clubs. Waitresses are not included in the $2 minimum, presumably because they are expected to collect tips, and many women work as club waitresses.

One worker who attended the organization meeting in Princeton this spring, said she worked a six-day week, eight hours a day in a 30-room house for $60 a week. Her employer does not pay the bus fare from Trenton, she said.

Wages Vary Widely. Another member of the new organization reported $1.75 an hour to work in a household of four people. In contrast, another worker reported $3 an hour paid by a single employer living alone. A rate of $4.50 an hour was quoted for work in a family of five.

Benefits are another complaint. Few household workers get paid vacations; in fact, this is a double-edged problem. Not only do they not get paid vacations of their own, they are usually not paid when the employers themselves go off on vacation.

"'Goodbye, see you when I get back,' is what they say," Ms. Hill says, "and a household worker who asks for pay under these circumstances finds that word gets around—maybe at a Present Day Club meeting—and she has trouble getting a job after that."

Older household workers, particularly, are fearful of telling an employer what they want, Ms. Hill has found. These women were even reluctant to speak out at the meetings held so far.

Ms. Hill tells of a woman 76 years old who has never had a day off with pay in 11 years with the same employer.

The Ground Rules. Ms. Banks says most workers discuss with a new employer exactly what the work will be: window-washing or not? heavy floor-cleaning or not? ironing or not?

"Household workers should speak up about all these things," Ms. Hill believes, "but so often the workers have been with a family a long time, and they'll tell you, 'Why, we sit down and have coffee together and talk, like friends' and they don't think it's right to bring up subjects like money, or suddenly telling you when you arrive for work, that you aren't needed that day."

Social Security can be another difficulty. In an office, money is deducted from the employee's paycheck and matched by the employer. But with household workers, it's a widely varying pattern. Some employers pay their own share and the employee's share. Some close their eyes to the law and neither deduct nor pay.

If a worker takes on an extra job and earns, say, $5 a meal for waiting on table at a private club, and if Social Security is deducted from that, it isn't much to take home.

Although Princeton University has a low pay scale, it is regarded as a good place to work because it gives one month's vacation after only a year of work, and because it offers all benefits including retirement pay. Private clubs don't have pensions or retirement pay.

"Informality; workers hate this with a passion," Ms. Hill says. "You call me 'Mrs. Smith' but I call you 'Jane' or even 'My girl.' Oh, workers hate that!"

Unknown Factor. Nobody knows the number of household workers in Princeton. Many, of course, come from Trenton to work and there is some suspicion that Trenton workers are willing to settle for less pay and perhaps are more exploited, but this isn't certain. Both Ms. Hill and Ms. Banks hope to draw members for Princeton Household Technicians from the Trenton area.

National statistics show one and one-half million household workers, 200,000 of them heads of families, 81% earning about $2,000 a year.

In Princeton, the demand for household workers is fairly heavy and constant. Women who attended the organization meeting of the Technicians, spoke with pride of the quality of their work. They were scornful of those who did a haphazard job, and those who were lazy.

"They had problems, but all of them seemed happy in their work," says Joan Hill.

Annual Alumni Reunions to Draw Thousands Here This Weekend—Governor Byrne's Class of '49 to Launch Parade from "Morven"

Orange and black trimmings are sprouting throughout the University campus once again, signaling the arrival of thousands of Princeton alumni and their families for Reunions this weekend. During the three-day period—Thursday through Saturday—alumni will sample a diverse fare of discussion forums, campus tours, film festivals and concerts, as well as to meet old friends and classmates in the various class headquarters scattered throughout campus.

The traditional high point of the weekend—the colorful Parade of all classes on Saturday afternoon—will have an added twist this year, thanks to the hospitality of a member of the Class of 1949, Governor Brendan Byrne, who will host a luncheon for some 225 classmates, their wives and children at his 25th reunion at "Morven," the Governor's Mansion. Led by the University Band, 1949 will then march down Nassau Street to the front gates of the University where they will swing onto campus and—as the "Honor Class"—lead the Parade at 2 o'clock. The parade route is through campus to the intersection of Washington Road and Prospect Avenue, down Prospect to Roper Lane, and thence to Ivy Lane Green, where the Princeton Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting.

According to Raymond H. Compton, Class of '49 Reunion Chairman and a vice-president at Carter Wallace, Princeton's Class of 1949 is distinguished in a number of ways.

Referring to the interruptions of World War II and the Korean War, Mr. Compton describes the Class of 1949 as "the most broken down, fragmented, sick and starved class that ever attended Princeton University.

QUARTER-CENTURY GRAD: Gov. Brendan Byrne '49

It took," he adds, "13 class of 1879, who served as chief executive from 1911 to twice yearly) to get us out." 1913. The first was William Paterson, class of 1763, who Thus, the theme of the 25th reunion—traditionally a major one—is "All Together This Time."

Half Million Given. The class has also distinguished itself with a $500,000 contribution to its alma mater—a sum unmatched by any other class in Princeton's history—the bulk of it, according to Mr. Compton, "in individual donations of $500 to $1,000." Finally, the class of 1949 has in its midst the tenth Princeton alumnus to serve as governor of New Jersey. The ninth was Woodrow Wilson.

The present governor graduated with honors after majoring in the School of Public and International Affairs, now the Woodrow Wilson School. While an undergraduate he was on the track team, a member of Theatre Intime and of the Whig Clio student debating society. Governor Byrne's son, Thomas, is a student at Princeton, class of 1976.

Beginning Thursday afternoon, and running through Saturday morning, there will be a series of alumni-faculty forums covering a broad range of topics—everything from the state of the U.S. economy, to the energy crisis, to a group of alumni spouses asking the question: "Are You a Male Chauvinist?"

Film buffs will have a chance to see six Alfred Hitchcock films, two each evening at 7:30 and 9:30 in 10 McCosh Hall. Rowing buffs will head for Lake Carnegie Friday noon to see the oarsmen of 1944 race the 1974 women's varsity, the latter coming off a 7-2 season and third place in the Eastern Championships.

On Sunday, the activities of the returning alumnus give way to those of the departing senior—the Baccalaureate Service in the University Chapel at 11, President and Mrs. Bowen's Garden Party in Prospect gardens in the afternoon, the Concert Band's Annual Steps Concert Sunday evening. Monday brings Class Day exercises on Cannon Green, the traditional senior "step singing" in front of Nassau Hall that evening, and the senior prom on the plaza of Woodrow Wilson School. On Tuesday, at 11 a.m. on the front lawn of Nassau Hall, Princeton will hold its 227th commencement exercises.

TOPICS Of The Town

IDA WINS
Suit Thrown Out. A suit filed in an attempt to keep IDA from building on land off Terhune Road, has been tossed out by Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch.

In a decision dated last Friday, Judge Schoch granted the request for summary judgment made by the several defendants in the action, all of whom banded together to make the request. Robert and Julia Hosford, 430 Terhune Road, the plaintiffs had asked court action against IDA, the Princeton Regional Planning Board; Township Mayor Jay Bleiman; the Thanet Corporation, owner of the land, Page Associates, IDA's landlord and W. Joseph Shinn, the Township's building inspector.

The "summary judgment" means the judge found no disputed issues of fact in any of the affidavits filed with the court, and therefore agreed with the defendants that they were entitled to a favorable judgment.

The Hosfords had charged that the Planning Board hadn't acted in accordance with the statutes, but Judge Schoch did not agree. He also said that, in respect to consideration of drainage which was a prime factor in the Hosfords' protests, the record was "replete with evidence" that the board had considered drainage and had imposed conditions to make sure drainage problems were taken care of.

The suit had charged conflict of interest against Mayor Bleiman, declaring that he should have disqualified himself because he is a retired Army officer drawing retirement pay, and IDA does work for the defense department. Judge Schoch said he found nothing that required Mayor Bleiman's disqualification in any discussions and he brushed off the charge that Mayor Bleiman's former Army connection was a conflict of interest. "Far-fetched," he said.

The case may be appealed to the Appellate Division of Superior Court.

TURN DOWN THE LIGHT!

Rates Held Too High. Public Services rate increase request is "not cost-justified," said Township Committee Monday night, generating what it hopes will be an increasing current of opposition to the utility's formal request to raise its rates.

Committee planned to present its unanimous opposition at the PUC hearing scheduled for this Wednesday in Newark.

A study by Committee

New Month, New Look

June is riding
Fresh and high,
A bright sun in a
Rain-scrubbed sky

Watch out, the Man says, more than the month of June is riding high. Both temperature and humidity are on their way upward—isn't it always that way when reunions and commencement appear on the Princeton scene?

Thermometer readings in the 80s are forecast at least through Saturday. However, so are fair skies, and after the above-average rainfall the spring of 1974 has provided, sunshine, even the hotter kind, will prove welcome.

members William Sutphin and Margaret Broadwater suggested that the increase request anticipates future labor costs, rather than labor costs already incurred; is designed to produce 9.7 per cent, rather than simply the minimum cost of borrowing ("there should be only enough increase to pay the cost of capitalization," Mr. Sutphin declared); and possibly doesn't consider any productivity gains.

"We say the increase is excessive," Mr. Sutphin concluded.

Mrs. Broadwater said she has estimated that the biggest increment is at the lowest rates, so that householders wouldn't be able to save money—and energy—by turning out a light bulb. A 100-kilowatt-per-month use—lower than anyone would really have—would jump from the present $4.61 to $6.94, an increase of 50 per cent, she said.

Committee introduced an ordinance lining up additional hike routes: on Westerly, Wilson, John, Leigh, Guyot and Race. On Guyot, parking will be prohibited on the south side between Witherspoon and Carnahan; on Westerly, "no parking" on the west side between Elm and Wilson; on Wilson, prohibited on the south and west side. Public hearing will be June 17.

An agreement with PCH Village, Inc. providing payments in lieu of taxes based on gross shelter rents, was approved, but Committee members said they were uncertain about provisions for 50 units of Federally-financed public housing, which have always been discussed as part of the PCH project. The agreement, as approved, wasn't clear on the matter, Committee agreed.

The annual renewal of liquor licenses went down smoothly except for Witherspoon Lodge, whose renewal was set aside until the club corrects health department violations.

A use variance was unanimously granted to William Bucci to build a car sales agency on State Road. Two other automobile agencies are neighbors.

A contract for $4,375 was awarded the Lee Clothing Company for police uniforms. The Township saved about $200 by eliminating braid down the sides of trousers.

Committee passed the required resolution declaring that there will be no

Three Women Die in Crash on Route 31

A car carrying five young women apparently ran a stop sign at the intersection of Routes 518 and 31 in Hopewell Township early last Saturday morning and was rammed by a tractor-trailer. Three of the women died; the others were injured.

Killed instantly in the crash, which occurred at 2 a.m. on the rainswept highway, were the driver, Miss Linda Legnani, 25, of Florence, and Miss Rayna S. Moskovitz, 20, of Bordentown. Mrs. Linda M. Wood, 22, of Washington Township, the mother of an infant girl, died at 5 a.m. Saturday in the Mercer Medical Center.

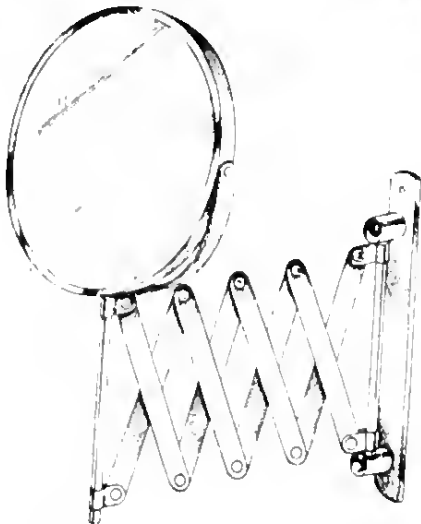

Sharon Moskovitz, 22, sister of the Bordentown woman, was treated for shock and hysteria at Princeton Medical Center. Miss Helen M. Dytyniak, 22, of Trenton, was listed in fair condition with cuts and contusions at Mercer Medical Center.

State Police at the Hopewell Barracks, located 300 feet from the crash site, said the women were probably returning from Charley's Brother, a night spot in Hopewell. When their car approached the intersection of Route 31, the driver may have been unable to see the stop sign because of the rain and the presence of another car already waiting at the intersection, the police speculated.

The car passed the waiting car, spun out of control and into the path of the truck, the driver of which said he was heading north on Route 31 at about 35 to 40 miles per hour. The car was thrown up an embankment on Route 31.

discrimination in picnic areas on the north side of State Road if Federal Bureau of Recreation funds are provided to construct the area. An identical resolution was passed, applying to a bike path on The Great Road.

Actually, Committee is realistic enough to think it won't get both BOR grants, and is on record as preferring the picnic grounds to the bike path, if Federal officials demand a choice. From the audience, William Barr, 127 Westerly Road, urged bike paths 10 to 20 feet back from the Great Road, instead of a foot or two. Or, build them in the road itself, he suggested, and cut the speed limit back to 25 m.p.h.

Committeeman Abbot Low Moffat assured him that no final location for these paths has yet been blocked out.

SCHOOL BOARD AGENDA

For June 11. The 15-minute slide show on Princeton High, which covers everything from the low and grubby ceiling of the boys' team room to a view of the Dairy Queen (to show where students spend their time), will be shown next Tuesday when the school board holds its June meeting. The date has been shifted from the usual point in the month, but the 8 p.m. hour and the Community Park meeting room remain the same.

The board expects to talk about a proposal to change the kindergarten hours so that children would attend four hours each day (from 8:30 to 1, or from 10 until 2). Experimental schedules like these are being followed this year.

All school buildings will have straight kindergartens (besides K-1-2 groups) in the coming year, Superintendent Philip E. McPherson said this week.

Foreign language teaching at the elementary level will also be on the agenda Tuesday. Two conclusions will be discussed: it's not useful to teach French at such an early age, nor is it useful to teach so many children so young, when only a few will benefit from this approach. Language teachers are expected to present their views.

Superintendent and board are drumming up support throughout Mercer County to have the county's vocational school pay for equipment it requires students to have, like steel-tipped safety shoes. The spirit of the law of "free" public education, says board counsel Thomas Cook,

Thieves' Weekly Haul: American Flag, Iron Bench, Car Bumper, Potted Plant

Thieves demonstrated again last week in Princeton that anything is fair game from the American flag in front of Borough Hall to a front bumper of a Porsche sports car.

The American flag was reported missing Monday by Chief Michael Carnevale. Paul Downs, a Princeton University student, reported the theft of the front bumper from his car last week while it was parked behind the Ivy Club, 43 Prospect Avenue. Replacement cost: $300.

A Linden Lane resident listed the theft Thursday of a $200 cast iron bench from her front lawn. Police said the bench weighed more than 200 pounds.

Morris Martin, 3 Palmer Square, lost all four wheel covers from his Mercedes Benz while it was parked during a four-day span in the PMI lot next to the Princeton Playhouse. He valued them at $100.

A battery valued at $35 was taken from a doctor's car last week while it was parked between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the Merwick Nursing Home on Bayard Lane.

Student Plant Thief Charged. A 21-year old Westminster Choir College student, Deborah J. Richards, was arrested at 12:30 Saturday morning on Chestnut Street and charged with possession of a potted petunia plant that, police say, was allegedly taken from Gene Sea Flowers, 200 Nassau Street.

She was issued a complaint summons ordering her to appear in Borough Court June 19. Sgt. Thomas Procaccino, Ptl. William Hunter and Det. Timothy Huizing were the arresting officers.

obligates the vocational school to pay for these items.

CAR DESTROYED

In Gulick Road Fire. A garage and its contents, including a 1968 car, were destroyed Sunday morning in a fire at the home of Jasper L. Tripp, 32 Gulick Road.

The 9:20 fire was contained to the attached garage, Township police said, but the contents—a food freezer, bicycles, lawn mower and various articles in addition to the car—were destroyed. The garage was a total loss.

The kitchen and hallway adjacent to the garage suffered water damage and there was smoke damage throughout the house, Chief Frederick Porter said. The cause of the fire was investigated by Det. Norman Service and Chief David McCloskey, William Karch and George Rollins of the fire department.

Chief Porter reported that it is believed that fumes from the car's untapped gas tank were ignited by a spark from the motor of the electric food freezer.

The investigation also revealed that atmospheric conditions may have been a contributing factor. It was raining at the time, and under such conditions, Chief Porter explained, gas fumes hang low, build up and become stronger.

$690 IS STOLEN

From Dillon Gym Safe. $690.50 in cash and $120 in checks were stolen last week from a safe in the ticket office at Dillon Gym, Borough police report. There were no signs of forced entry to the office, which was ransacked.

According to Capt. Theodore Lewis, the thief apparently ransacked the office and found the combination to the safe after an attempt to remove its door hinge pins had failed. University proctors notified police of the theft last Tuesday. Det. Timothy Huizing is investigating.

CHARGES FLY

After Rooming House Fight. A resident and the owner of a rooming house at 184 Witherspoon Street have filed charges against a woman boarder following a fight there around 1 a.m. last Wednesday morning.

Police took Vincent Dula to nearby Princeton Medical Center after he sustained a laceration to his neck from a knife-like instrument, but he refused medical aid. He charged Queen Esther Corbett with assault and malicious damage to his property. Police said that Ms. Corbett had smashed the windshield of his car.

Edward Grant, the rooming house owner, has charged Ms. Corbett with malicious damage, claiming she cut the mattress and linens in Mr. Dula's room and also tried to break the door lock. Ms. Corbett was served with the complaint summonses and later released, pending her appearance in Borough court.

DRIVER LOSES LICENSE

For Drunken Driving. James W. Edwards, Cherry Valley Road, had his license suspended for two years and was fined $210 for drunken driving Monday in Borough traffic court.

In other cases, Judge Philip Carchman fined Anne G. Wellman, 106 Nassau Street, $23 for speeding; Harrison S. Fraker, 201 Moore Street, $20, red light violation; and Keith Spooner, RD 4 Princeton, $25, operating a car with a noisy muffler.

After Paul E. Campbell, 5 Borosko Place, Princeton Junction, pleaded guilty to careless driving and not guilty to leaving the scene of an accident, Judge Carchman said that he would reserve his decision. Mr. Campbell was represented by an attorney.

FELLOWSHIPS AWARDED

To Two Princeton Residents. Dissertation Fellowships in Women's Studies have been awarded to two Princeton women studying at Princeton University for their Ph.D. degrees by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation. Chosen among 27 selected from various parts of the nation, they are Marguerite W. Dupree, 164 Graduate College, and JoAnn M. Magdoff, 29 Wiggins Street.

The announcement said that the candidates "were chosen for their ability to make significant scholarly contributions to the growing body of knowledge about changing women's roles, particularly those in contemporary American society." Now in its second year, the program is financed by a Ford Foundation grant of $125,000.

Miss Dupree, a doctoral candidate in history, graduated in 1972 from Mount Holyoke. Her proposed dissertation title is "Technological Change, Family Structure and Women in the Staffordshire Potteries, 1750-1850."

Miss Magdoff whose field is anthropology, graduated in 1969 from City University of New York. Her dissertation title is "Female and Male: Changes in Identity and Ideology for the Peasants of Rural Tuscany."

RENOVATIONS PLANNED

For Merwick Unit. The Princeton Medical Center's rehabilitation and extended care facility on Bayard Lane, the Merwick Unit, is scheduled for expansion and alteration. The Princeton architectural firm of Fulmer & Bowers has been commissioned to design the addition of a fourth story to the wing completed in 1969, and the modernization of portions of the original Bishop Matthews mansion and the 1957 wing.

WINNERS: Marguerite Dupree and JoAnn Magdoff, doctoral candidates at Princeton University, are among 27 women selected by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation to receive Dissertation Fellowships in Women's Studies for the coming academic year. Story this page.

The new floor will be a rehabilitation unit specializing in the care and treatment of the physically handicapped, such as amputees and the partially paralyzed. Facilities will include a physical therapy gymnasium, occupational therapy studio and shop, an apartment with full bath and kitchen for home training, a general purpose room for patient activities and dining, seven semi-private and two private bedrooms each with a bathroom, nurses' station, doctor's offices and therapists' offices.

The patient rooms in the original mansion will be converted to patient activity areas, doctors' offices, staff offices and conference room, a shop for casts and braces, an x-ray room, a dental examination room, and offices for volunteers and the Visiting Nurses Association.

The existing facilities for convalescent and nursing home care will remain, as will the outpatient physical, occupational and speech therapy facilities.

Dr. Leonard Policoff, Director of the Merwick Unit, formulated the functional program for rehabilitative medicine. Construction is expected to begin before the end of the year.

SPEED IS REDUCED

On Portions of 206 North. The Township Traffic Safety Committee has received permission from the state Department of Transportation to reduce the speed limit on two portions of Route 206 north.

As soon as Township police can erect the proper signs, speed will be reduced from 50 to 45 at a point 700 feet south of Arreton Road to Hillside Avenue -- across from the Mary Watts store. From Hillside to the Township line at Cherry Hill Road the speed will be cut from 50 to 40 miles an hour.

The reduction had long been sought for by Sgt. Anthony Nini, head of the Traffic Safety Committee. "We had felt for a long time," commented Chief Porter, "that due to the commercial and business development along 206, the area was very hazardous because of the 50-mile limit." He termed it "unrealistic."

"We feel that this reduction is a great accomplishment and will make that area much safer," concluded Chief Porter.

Parking Banned. Chief Porter also announced that no parking or standing will be allowed within 110 feet on both sides of Snowden Lane from the intersection of Nassau Street, and on the east side of Riverside Drive West.

The ban is a result of state approval of a traffic light for the intersection which Chief Porter said would "be installed in the near future." The enabling no-parking ordinance was passed by Township Committee last week.

2 TEENAGERS CHARGED

With Shoplifting. Two Kendall Park teenagers, 15 and 16, have been charged by Township police with shoplifting.

They were detected concealing a $6 halter in the junior department at Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center by Ms. Patricia McNaughton of the store's security department. The two were later released to their parents, pending action by juvenile officials.

CARS VANDALIZED

At 244 Nassau Street. Two cars parked at the rear of 244 Nassau Street were vandalized during the weekend.

A 1962 Mercedes Benz owned by Barry Merritt had its wipers and antenna bent and a rear tire flattened, police said. A front seat was cut and the wipers and antenna broken off of a 1962 sedan owned by Daniel Werts. Police said both men lived at the 244 address.

Student's Car, Too. Township police report that Bradley Marks, a student at the Hun School, told them his car had been the target of vandals sometime between 10 Saturday evening and 6:30 p.m. the next day.

Police said that dents in the side and rear of the car gave the appearance that it had been kicked and there were signs that the engine had been tampered with. In addition, air was let out of three tires, the antenna was bent, a rear tail-light lens broken and the windshield on the driver's side covered with soap. Ptl. David Wilbur investigated.

PATROLMAN NO. 1
In Area Pistol Match. Sharp-shooting Township Patrolman James Vandermark won three individual trophies and his teammates two as the Township team dominated the third annual Mercer County Police Combat Pistol Match sponsored by the Trenton police department. The match was held at the Trenton range on Duck Island. Ptl. Vandermark finished first in the Tactical Revolver Course with a score of 98.0 and second on the Practical Pistol Course with 99.2 score. His combined total in the two courses earned him the event's most prestigious trophy, the High Grand Aggregate Award. He had finished second last year.

Actually, Ptl. Vandermark and Ptl. Al Herrington of the Hamilton force had tied for first place in the Practical Pistol Course but Herrington was awarded first place for scoring more bulls-eyes. All shooting was done with .38 caliber pistols. The Township team comprised of Ptl. Anthony Gaylord, Detective Anthony Pinelli, Ptl. Renn Kaminski and Vandermark placed third in the Tactical and Practical shooting events as the Township captured five of 13 trophies. Two teams each from the Trenton and Hamilton departments plus others from the FBI, East Windsor and ATF (Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearm agency of the federal government) participated. The Borough police did not enter the event.

Individual scores for the four Township shooters in the Tactical Revolver and Practical Pistol courses were: Vandermark, 98.0 and 99.2; Gaylord, 94.6 and 94.4; Pinelli, 88.0 and 94.8 and Kaminski, 82.0 and 87.6.

The tactical course is a difficult test in which each contestant has to run up to a line, fire off 12 rounds in 30 seconds, re-load, run 10 yards to another line, assume another position, fire and re-load, until he has covered a distance from 60 yards down to 15 yards. Lt. Richard Steinert, the Township's firearms expert and an excellent shooter himself, helped the Township squad train for the match but did not participate.

DOG HEARING SET
At Borough Council. The dog ordinance (that's the one that says Borough dogs have to be kept under control 24 hours a day), will be aired for public hearing next Tuesday at 8 p.m. before Borough Council. The governing body will also repeal the Spring-Vandeventer zoning ordinance amendment, but Mayor Robert W. Cawley says Council isn't yet sure about offering a replacement ordinance. Council will also hold a hearing on setting up the Washington-Prospect traffic light. The ordinance

TOWNSHIP MARKSMEN: Gathered around the trophies they won in the 3rd annual Mercer County Police Combat Pistol Match held in Trenton are the four members of the Township team that won 5 of 13 trophies. changing the R02 district to a zone allowing retail use, will be deferred to the July meeting.

ADULTS ARE INDICTED
Ry Youths for Apathy. When four young boys walked up to the Township police desk Monday afternoon and told Ptl. Mario Musso they wanted to see the mayor, Ptl. Musso asked, "why?" After all, he said, it isn't often that kids come in and ask to see the mayor. "To lodge a complaint," they replied. Both Mayor Bleiman and Juvenile Officer Anthony Pinelli were out, so Ptl. Musso referred them to Det. Samuel Bianco.

The youths—Joseph Meyers, 11, 118 Linden Lane; Hugh Cline, 11, 342 Nassau Street; Mark Bessire, 9, 25 Mercer Street, and David Greenspan, 10, 76 Valley Road—told Det. Bianco that they had been at the Shopping Center Sunday around 4:30 when they noticed that one of the new red and white trash cans in the mall had been set afire.

They told the officer that when they stopped two or three adults to seek help each walked away, saying they couldn't be bothered. The boys finally got a pail of water from the Thrift Drug Store in the center and put the fire out themselves.

Det. Bianco reported that the youths were disturbed about the apathy the adults had displayed and had inquired, "Can't anything be done?"

"No," the officer replied. He added that he told them that "unfortunately, that is the way some people are today."

It left a bad impression in their minds about adults," continued Det. Bianco, who thanked them for coming down. "Come here anytime and we'll give you help," he said.

Where You At, Man? 08540? 08638? 08648?

Post card ballots are being sent out Thursday to the occupants of about 4,500 residences in Lawrence Township that use either Princeton or Trenton mailing addresses. The occupants will be asked if they want to retain their current address or change it to Lawrenceville.

In November Lawrence Township voters approved by a 2-1 margin a non-binding referendum calling for a single mailing address. This polling will be limited to only those people affected by the possible changes, and the Postal Service will make the final ruling on any changes.

Township officials said that if a large majority of the residences in either area approve the change then the Postal Service will make it. About 4,300 residences in the western portion of Lawrence Township now use the Trenton 08638 mailing address. They may be changed to Lawrenceville 08648, depending on the outcome of the ballot.

About 125 residences in the eastern portion of the Township now use Princeton 08540 addresses. They also have the opportunity to change to Lawrenceville, depending on the outcome of their balloting.

The postcard ballots must be returned to the Postal Service by Tuesday, June 18.

New Jersey, will speak at the meeting.

"We expect the odds are against us by about six to one," Mr. Mechling has said, "but we can do some good if we raise people's consciousness about gambling."

A referendum authorizing casino gambling will be on the ballot this November. Senator Martindell has voted against the proposal and spoken against it. Her invitation list to Thursday's meeting includes about 50 names assembled by Richard Johnson, a former Department of Community Affairs official and colleague of Mrs. Martindell's in the New Democratic Coalition, now with Keyes, Martin Advertising. Dan Gaby, another reform Democrat, has also helped to assemble the list.

Senator Martindell has said that Mr. Johnson suggested she begin organizing opposition to the casino gambling proposal. Mr. Mechling says he expects support from such organizations as the League of Women Voters, the Council of Churches and various church groups. He also has a list of private backers.

sacked. Tools were taken from the metal shop, four boxes of flashcubes and a small amount of change from desks in the library office room, eight thermometers in addition to the sulphuric acid from a lab.

Dispensers in three women's rest rooms were entered; two school crossing guard badges—Nos. 4 and 8—were taken from a custodian's room; padlocks, keys and a compass from room C13. Seven ceiling tiles were broken in the gym. Again, there were no signs of forced entry.

Det. Frank Buccanuso and Ptl. David Fonk are investigating the first entry. Ptl. Jerry Offredo the second.

Free at Medical Center.

This Thursday is Pap Smear Day and the American Cancer Society and the Mercer County Medical Society are sponsoring a free Pap smear program at the Princeton Medical Center from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The outpatient department will be staffed by volunteer doctors and nurses and community workers.

The Pap Day program is an effort of the Cancer Society's Uterine Task Force, which hopes to eliminate uterine cancer in this century. Women are urged to refrain from the use of all vaginal medication and treatments the evening preceding the test.

10-HOUR METERS?
Half Will Go. Nobody showed up except Borough Council and press—at a special public hearing held Thursday to pass an ordinance wiping out half the Borough's all-day, ten-hour parking meters.

It will take a little while for the change-over. Before it does occur, motorists who have been using the long-term meters will find an explanatory note tucked against the windshield wiper. Everybody hopes that most of these drivers will be converted to Jadwin parking lot, from which they can ride, at 25¢, into their jobs and not have to worry about parking.

VANDALS RUN WILD
In JW School. Someone is doing something he never learned to do at the John Witherspoon School.

Chief Frederick Porter reported that the school has been visited twice by vandals. One of the items taken was a pint of sulphuric acid, and Chief Porter warned that the substance "can be very dangerous" and might explode if water is added to it.

He implored those who have it to leave the acid in a safe place and notify police where they can retrieve it. It could be tragic if it got into the hands of small children, he said.

The most recent entry was discovered Sunday morning by custodian Frank Petrone. There were no signs of forced entry but police believe the intruders may have entered the school through a library door. Once inside, they used extinguishers to spray powder and water in the gym and labs on the first floor.

Two classrooms were sprayed on the second floor. Chief Porter added that keys were used to enter other rooms where a few desks were open but nothing appears to have been taken.

Rooms Ransacked. The previous weekend the school was systematically ran-

SOROPTIMIST SALE SET
At Shopping Center. Carol Walker, past president of the Soroptimist Club of Princeton, has announced that the Soroptimists will participate in the flea market to be held Saturday, June 29, at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Club members are making terrycloth togas for bath or beach wear in sizes for children and adults. The togas will be available in varied colors—solids, prints, stripes, and with novelty patterns for children—at prices between $6 and $12.

Flowering dutch bulbs (for September delivery), home baked goods, hand made articles, and white elephants will also be on sale. Proceeds will be used to support a variety of community projects.

COMMENCEMENT SET
For Boychoir School. The 34th Commencement Exercises of The Columbus Boychoir School will be held on Sunday, at 3 in Trinity Church. The entire school will participate in the Order of Service for Evensong, which will include "Magnificat in D" by Harris, and Brahms' "Adoramus te."

Dr. Lee H. Bristol, former President of Westminster Choir College, will give the address. The Rev. James B. Whittemore, Rector of Trinity, Russell D. Gray, President of the Board of Trustees, the Rev. Thornton B. Penfield, Jr., Donald Hanson, Executive Director and Music Director of the School, and Goff Owen, Jr., Academic Dean, will participate. Robert L. Hobbs, Associate Music Director at the School, will be the organist.

Graduates are Dale H. Aebersold (Adrian, Michigan), W. Gregory Connaughton III, (Gladstone, N.J.), Theodore V. Czotter (Middletown, Pa.), Todd T. French (Lawrenceville, N.J.), C. Neill Trueblood

TENANT WINS

In Rent Case. The Borough's rent board ruled last week that tenant James Mamer was due $450 from landlord Frank Procaccini in a dispute involving an apartment at 52 Patton Avenue. Mr. Mamer claimed his lease had started last September 1 and therefore came under the rent-leveling ordinance. Mr. Procaccini said it was a 14-month lease starting July 1 and therefore did not come under the ordinance.

The written lease of The written lease was for $250 a month rent. The tenant before Mr. Mamer had paid $200. The Borough board ruled that $200 was the base rent, and that Mr. Mamer was due a refund of $50 a month for nine months, or $450.

STUDENT CHARGED

With Larceny. A 22-year-old Princeton University student was scheduled to appear in Borough court this Wednesday afternoon to answer a charge of larceny.

Gregory A. Howard, 1938 Hall, was picked up by Det. Anthony Ranfone after he allegedly used a stolen credit card to purchase $9.15 worth

$38,000 for Study

A grant of $38,000 to be used for studying ways of providing low and moderate-income housing in Princeton, has been awarded the Princeton Regional Planning Board by the state's Department of Community Affairs.

The money will pay the Real Estate Research Corporation and legal experts for an analysis of the economic impact of such housing on both Borough and Township. The five-month study is also expected to produce a workable housing program, linked to the goals and plans outlined last year by the housing sub-committee of the Planning Board.

of gasoline last week at the Exxon Station on the Penns Neck Circle.

According to Borough police, the card was in a wallet stolen earlier from Samuel McCleery who told police he had left his wallet next to the basketball court while playing ball in Marquand Park. It contained $3 and credit cards.

The Exxon card belonged to the victim's father, William McCleery, 317 Edgerstone Road, who came to headquarters the day after he received his statement from Exxon to say that the one charge was not his. A police lookup of the license number on the slip reportedly revealed that it was Mr. Howard's car for which the gas had been purchased.

NEW CHAIRMAN NAMED

To Recording For the Blind. At the annual board meeting of Recording for the Blind held Tuesday, E. Hunter Ross of Wheatshaf Lane was elected chairman of the Princeton Unit. Mrs. John Mulligan, retiring chairman, has joined the National Board of Recording for the Blind in New York.

Mr. Ross is a retired anthropologist who graduated from Union College and attended The Graduate School of Architecture, Princeton University. A former curator of Ethnology for the Newark Museum and past-President of The Archeological Society of New Jersey, he presently is a trustee of The Friends of the New Jersey State Museum and spends much time and effort placing students from all over the world at archeological digs in the United States.

The annual board meeting was held at Mrs. Mulligan's home on Nelson Ridge Road, and was followed by a reception for the new members of the Board of Directors: Mrs. James G. Scarff, Albert Westefeld and Mrs. James Hastings.

The Princeton Unit of Recording For the Blind, Inc., 100 Stockton Street, is manned by trained volunteers, and is urgently in need of readers and monitors. For appointment for voice-test and

Youth Center Is Open

Although the Princeton Youth Center will be "between directors" when Len Brown leaves June 15 and before the new director takes over July 1, the Center is open and will be run throughout the summer, Mondays through Saturdays.

A farewell reception for Mr. Brown will be given Sunday from 3:30 to 5:30 by members of the Youth Center Board, at the Center.

During the interim weeks before the new director arrives, the Center's activities will be in charge of Terrie Austin (arts and culture) and Johnny Bailey (recreation). Mrs. Charlotte Gipson will continue as administrator. Members of the board themselves, under board chairman Albert Hinds, will be "directors."

Volunteers will reinforce speech and motor skills on a one-to-one basis. Work requirements for these volunteers are two to three full days a week or five mornings or afternoons a week. Volunteers will be members of the professional team, included in staff meetings.

Camp Casual Day Camp needs a minimum of ten volunteers daily to assist in serving about 100 long-term patients. Activities include outdoor cooking, music and occupational therapy, games and outdoor recreation. Volunteers must work a minimum of three days a week.

Time requirements may vary in other activities, according to the needs and requirements set by the appropriate section chief or program director. The volunteer office is particularly interested in placing students interested in mental health careers—nursing, sociology, psychology, special education and related fields.

"Volunteer work at the Institute will be a fantastic learning experience for these students," commented Mrs. Katherine Quay, Director of

BLOOD TEST OFFERED

For Hypertension. The Mercer County Medical and Heart Associations and the Health Departments of Princeton Borough and Township will sponsor a free hypertension screening program at four locations next week. The quick and painless test of blood pressure is offered to all residents over 35 years of age.

The screenings will be Monday from 3 to 4 at Spruce Circle; Tuesday from 1 to 4 at Community Pool; Wednesday from 6 to 9 at the outpatient department of the Princeton Medical Center; and Friday from 1 to 3 at the Red Cross building on Franklin Avenue.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, is believed to be an important factor leading to strokes, heart failure, kidney damage and possible early death. When hypertension is detected a physician should be consulted.

AT THE UNIVERSITY
'Search For Answers.' If returning alumni or Princeton area residents grow tired of the usual Reunions fare this weekend, and if they've already seen the commercial theaters' offerings, then they can take in the University's own Academy-Award-winning film.

"Princeton: A Search for Answers," this year's Oscar winner in the short documentary category, will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 and 9 in Whig Hall. The half-hour long color film was produced by a group of professional cinematographers hired by the University. They did most of the shooting a year ago this spring.

The University will not say how much the film cost, because the producers reportedly struck an especially good deal for this project and they do not want to be held to such a low figure for future films with other clients. Estimates of the cost have run as high as $85,000.

What University officials will say is that they are especially pleased with the way the film turned out.

Although it obviously will be used for recruiting and fund raising purposes, the film cannot be fairly placed into either one of those categories. It is rather an image film, with a sell as soft as eider down. The soundtrack, consisting entirely of professors lecturing, students talking, musicians playing, etc., doesn't use the word "Princeton" until about 20 minutes into the film.

Intriguing Mix. The film makers were set free to record their own impressions of Princeton. The result is an unrepresentative but intriguing mix. "A Search for Answers" is heavy with segments of lectures in the physical sciences, economics, music and drama. One could walk away from the film with the impression that Princeton students are even more serious than they already seem in person.

WHY, IT'S UNCLE MILTIE! This antique RCA television set, vintage 1948, still gives a good, sharp picture. In black and white, of course. It's on display at the University Store in the Radio-TV department, with a price-tag showing how much it cost 26 years ago $415—yes, four hundred and fifteen dollars, when that much money really meant something. You got service with your $415, too. The set was given to an employee of the U. Store by a customer who bought a new model.

Athletics are almost entirely relegated to the past. Action film of the football and baseball teams appears as part of a general look at Princeton's yesteryear. The only contemporary view of Palmer Stadium on an autumn Saturday shows the Princeton University Band in action—not the football team.

Reactions of students to the film have been less enthusiastic than most administrators. Enough undergraduates must have appreciated it, however, that another showing of "A Search for Answers" primarily for seniors and their families arriving for graduation, has been scheduled for Sunday at 2 and 3 in McCormick 101.

LIBRARIAN SOUGHT
William Dix to Retire. The appointment of an eight-person search committee to recommend a successor to Dr. William S. Dix, Princeton University Librarian for two decades, has been announced by President William G. Bowen.

The search committee is to be headed by the Provost of the University, F. Sheldon Mackney, Professor of History. Serving with him will be Forman Acton, Associate Professor of Electrical Engineering; Mary Brassell, a member of the staff of the Library's department of Science and Technology; John Hopfield, Professor of Physics; Alvin Kernan, Dean of the Graduate School and Professor of English; Richard Quandt, Professor of Economics; Helen Tuttle, Assistant University Librarian for Preparations; and John Wilson, Professor of Religion.

The members of the committee will consult widely, especially with the Faculty Committee on the Library, the Council of the Friends of the Library, and interested groups of graduate and undergraduate students, and will work closely with Charles Scribner '43, Chairman of the Trustee Committee on the Library. The committee hopes to bring a recommendation to the President, for transmission to the full Board of Trustees, during the coming academic year, the appointment of the new Librarian to be effective July 1, 1975.

A leader in the field of research libraries, and a scholar in the 19th century American novel, Dr. Dix joined the faculty of the English Department, and was named Librarian, in 1953. He had previously taught at Williams, Western Reserve, Harvard and Rice.

The University Library's holdings currently exceed 2 million volumes, more than twice the number that there were when Dix became Librarian. The number of serial titles received has doubled, while microfilm and map holdings have nearly quadrupled. Apart from the Harvey Firestone Memorial Library, there are 16 special subject libraries and two residential hall libraries within the University system.

A Virginia native, who will reach age 64 next November, Dix received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Virginia, and his Ph.D. from Chicago. He began his teaching career in 1932 as a master of the Darlington School in Rome, Ga.; at Rice, his last post before coming to Princeton. he was an Associate Professor of English and Librarian.

FOR PRE-SCHOOLERS....

With Speech Problems. A new school for pre-school children with speech and language disorders related to the hearing, language-memory and speech systems, will open this fall, and interviews with parents are now being held.

The school, to be known as the Rock Brook School, hopes to reach children between two and one-half and six years of age.

"Learning at this stage is pleasurable because it is an unconscious process of absorption and the child is an agent in his own learning process," explains Crystal F. Sargent, speech pathologist who is founder of the new school.

Early treatment is essential, she points out, because in the years between two and four, a child's speech and language facility is growing at its most rapid pace and the child is at the peak of responsiveness to treatment.

Diagnosis Provided. Rock Brook will provide diagnosis and evaluation of the child's communication disorder, speech and language therapy, a Montessori classroom designed to meet the special needs of each child, a program of parent involvement and coordination of all phases of the child's treatment.

The school will be located in the Blawenburg Dutch Reformed Church "one-room school house" on Route 518, a building which once housed the church's own school. The location has three classrooms, each of which will hold eight children. Two teachers will supervise each classroom.

Ms. Sargent has been teaching for two years at the Bancroft School in Hadonfield, a school for exceptional children. She has had six years' experience with pre-school children who have communication disorders. She is certified by New Jersey, and by the American Speech and Hearing Association.

Her administrative assistant and co-ordinator will be Marjorie Sanders, a certified Montessori teacher and teacher-trainer.

Licensed for Referrals. The school will be licensed by New Jersey to receive referrals from public schools, but so far there are no ways of locating children until they reach kindergarten age. Legislation now under consideration would extend state responsibility for special education to pre-school children and if the bill passes, public schools will provide screening and cover part of the cost.

Rock Brook is seeking financial aid from both state and private funds. Referrals are being sought from doctors, clinics, nursery school teachers, parent groups, and so on.

Information may be obtained from Ms. Sargent at 924-4277 evenings, or from Mrs. Sanders at 921-8954 between 1 and 3 p.m.

FLEA MARKET JUNE 15

At Morris Hall. The Women's Service Board of Morris Hall Health and Rehabilitation Center will hold its third annual Giant Fair and Flea Market Saturday, June 15, from 8 to 5 at the Center, Route 206, Lawrenceville. Mrs. Dudley Clark of Princeton is chairman and Mrs. Bernie Butler of Yardley co-chairman.

As in the past, proceeds will be used for a specific piece of equipment at the Center. A circo-electric bed for patients with back injuries was purchased with the profits of the first fair. A defibrillator for patients with heart problems was purchased with the proceeds of last year's fair. This year, the profits will purchase a special ambulance to facilitate the movement of patients in wheelchairs between the Center and other diagnostic and treatment institutions.

The fair-flea market is not only for fund raising; it is also planned to acquaint people with the services available at the ultra-modern health facility. Throughout the day of the market, regular tours will be conducted through the Center. There will be a "little theatre" in the lobby telling the Morris Hall Story.

The flea market will be limited to 155 tables with Mrs. Raymond Kuser and Mrs. Ralph Cox in charge. The

Like to Pick Your Own Produce? List of Such Farms Now Available

Do you want to pick your own fresh fruits and vegetables this year?

Frederick A. Perkins of Rutgers University thought you might, so he prepared a free brochure, "Where to Find Pick-Your-Own Fruits and Vegetables in New Jersey," which is full of information on some three dozen participating farms. Scattered across seven counties, the farms will offer such crops as strawberries, snap beans, blueberries, cherries, sweet corn and peppers, among others.

The brochure contains a map showing the locations of the farms and supplies the names of the owners, with addresses and telephone tables—bingo sized, eight feet by two-and-a-half feet—are assigned on a first come basis.

Those wishing to reserve tables should call Mrs. Kuser, 419 Bellevue Ave., Trenton at (609) 393-2487. All tables must be paid in advance. Checks should be made payable to M.H.J.R. Center Service Board.

Adding interest to the fair will be several auctions and raffles. And as last year, there will be a large selection of bric-a-brac and white elephant objects sold for the benefit of the Center.

As in the past, the fair promises to be a delight in food and bargains. Chairman Clark said, "There will be cakes and gourmet food, jewelry, new merchandise, silent auctions, flower, strawberries and so much more."

2ND PROGRAM PLANNED

For Bicycle Registration. West Windsor's second mass bicycle registration and inspection program has been scheduled for Saturday, June 15, sponsored by the Recreation Commission's Bicycle Committee under the chairmanship of Bob Bell.

The committee has also developed a plan for a bikeway system in West Windsor. The plan was presented to the Recreation Commission who forwarded it to the Planning Board with the request that it be considered for incorporation in the Master Plan which is now under revision.

In an effort to reach a maximum number of West Windsor residents, the committee has scheduled the registration program in three places. The first will take place at the Dutch Neck School from 10 until noon. The second will be at the Maurice Hawk School from 1 until 4. A third site has been added this year at the New Jersey Bell facility on Washington Road from 3 until 4. This is in the Penn's Neck area and close to the Long Meadow Section.

Sgt. Bruce Wauters of the West Windsor Police Dept. will again aid in the registration and inspection of bicycles. Representatives of Kopp's Bicycle Shop of Princeton will also inspect bicycles.

Those individuals whose bicycles are already registered with the West Windsor police are invited to now have their bicycles re-inspected.

Cyclists are urged to try to locate the serial numbers of their bicycles beforehand. The serial numbers are embossed in the frame, usually on the bottom bracket shell, the headset, the left rear dropout, or a frame tube.

numbers for each. There's also a listing of the commodities grown on each farm and a schedule of approximate harvest dates for the various crops, although these dates may vary due to weather conditions.

Mr. Perkins, Cooperative Extension Service specialist in marketing at Cook College, suggests a call to the farm prior to your visit to ask about charges and the availability of containers and whether the crop is ready and ripe for picking.

The new brochure is available from your county Extension Service Office or by writing to the Publications Distribution Center, Cook College, Rutgers University, New Brunswick 08903.

In conjunction with Bicycle Safety Week, the committee will also present a bicycle safety program in the Maurice Hawk and Dutch Neck Schools. These programs will be conducted by Mary Ellen Tagliaferri of the Committee together with a member of the West Windsor Police Dept. Parents are urged to familiarize themselves with bicycles rules of the road and to discuss bicycle safety with their children to reinforce the information which they will receive at the schools.

The Bicycle Committee was established by the Recreation Commission as a vehicle for residents to bring their interests and expertise to the aid of the community. Anyone who might want to help with this program or other bicycle programs, should contact Mr. Bell at 799-2312.

SUMMER COURSES LISTED

Art Studio on Canal. The Studio-on-the-Canal will feature a teen-age 11-14 creative painting workshop with special emphasis on the landscape. Conducted by Rex Goreleigh, the ten-week term summer session will run from June 17 through August.

A summer course for the adult evening oil painting workshop conducted by Hughie Lee-Smith will provide the student with an opportunity to cope with the pictorial requirements based on landscape, the nude and the portrait. Other courses for adults will include painting from nature in and around the Princeton area with Alexander Lee. Instruction will be conducted in all media, and sessions will be held in the morning.

A water color workshop with response to motifs and design will be stressed. Critiques and demonstrations are included in the instruction by Charles Dunn. Students are invited to bring a picnic supper for the early evening session.

Rex Goreleigh's evening drawing and painting workshop will continue. Designed for the beginner and advanced student, subject matter will include landscape, still life and the figure. Sunday morning sketch sessions also continue for the summer.

PUBLISHING AWARD SET

For University Press. The 1973 Carey-Thomas Award for "a distinguished project of book publishing" has been given to Princeton University Press for the publication of the Bollingen Series.

The annual award, established in 1942 and sponsored by "Publishers Weekly," honors "creative book publishing at its best, not editorial judgement alone but the exceptional display of initiative, imagination, co-operation with author, appropriate manufacture, and successful promotion and marketing."

The "Bollingen Series," established in 1943 by Paul Mellon and Mary Conover Mellon, is the publishing program of the Bollingen Foundation. Upon its completion it will comprise one hundred works, some consisting of a single volume and others of numerous volumes. More than 200 individual volumes have been issued.

The central core of the Bollingen Series, as it was originally planned by Mr. and Mrs. Mellon, was the publication of a complete new edition in English of the works of the Swiss psychologist C. G. Jung. The Collected Works of Jung has been the chief creative effort of the Bollingen Series, eighteen volumes have appeared and there are two more in preparation.

Until 1960, the books in Bollingen Series were published by Pantheon Books, Inc. In 1971, the Foundation assumed the function of publisher and Pantheon Books continued as distributor. In 1967, Princeton University Press began to publish and distribute the Series, which in 1969 was given to the Press outright. Publication of the Series continues under the aegis of the Press, and more than eighty volumes are still to appear.

The 1973 Carey-Thomas Award will be presented to the Bollingen Series on June 7 at a luncheon at Sardi's in New York. It will be the second time Princeton University Press has received this honor. In 1951 the Award was given to the Papers of Thomas Jefferson, edited by Julian P. Boyd.

BRANCH OFFICE OPENED

By Henderson Realty. John T. Henderson, Inc., Princeton Realtor, has announced the opening of a new office to serve the East Windsor, West Windsor, Hightstown and Cranbury areas.

The new office is located on Route 130, just north of the Cranbury Circle. It brings the total number of Henderson offices to three — two opened within the last year — and is in line with the firm's growth plans for dominance in Mercer, Hunterdon and Somerset counties.

With corporate headquarters at 353 Nassau Street, Henderson's other office is at Hopewell House Square, Hopewell. A Yardley office will open in July.

"With 29 different communities to service, each with a cross section of house styles, prices, land and commercial properties, we feel that a truly professionally-staffed, full-service realtor must have a network of offices to know each market and to service every possible buying or selling client," said John T. Henderson, Jr., President of Henderson Realtors. "Our 38 sales associates can now service any customer, buying or selling, in central New Jersey."

Henderson is a member of Multiple Listing Service; the Princeton Real Estate Group; Relo — the largest referral system in the country; and the International Real Estate Federation. Plans are underway to open additional offices throughout most of New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. A franchise operation is being prepared for offering to the public.

Communications System Built at RCA Begins First Leg of 460-Million Mile Trip to Mars

A $25 million communications system for NASA's Viking lander — the spacecraft that may reveal the existence of life on Mars — has begun the first leg of what eventually will be a 460 million-mile journey from the Princeton area to the Red Planet.

The first flight-ready system was shipped to the prime contractor, Martin Marietta Aerospace, Denver, Colo., for integration into the Viking lander spacecraft. It was developed by RCA's Astro-Electronics Division near Princeton. The Viking Project is managed by NASA's Langley Research Center.

Prior to shipment, the system successfully completed a series of flight qualification tests that simulated conditions expected to be found in the thin Martian atmosphere and on the planet's surface, according to Frank Boyer, Viking Program Manager at RCA Astro-Electronics Division.

"As part of the tests, a 30-inch diameter steerable high gain S-band dish underwent wind and dust tests to simulate the violent dust storms known to occur on Mars," Mr. Boyer said. He noted that the smallest antenna, the S-band low gain, can be held in the palm of a hand, yet is able to receive signals directly from Earth.

Scheduled for launch from Cape Kennedy in 1975, the Viking spacecraft, consisting of a lander and an orbiter, will cruise for 11 months in space before reaching Mars in June 1976. A second Viking spacecraft will follow the first about 45 days later.

RCA is supplying three communications systems for the Viking landers. The third communications system will be incorporated in a spare lander. The lander communications system consists of an ultra-high frequency (UHF) radio transmitter and antenna for beaming information to the orbiter and an S-band unit for broadcasting directly to Earth.

"A primary objective of the Viking mission is to determine whether life exists or has ever existed on the Red Planet," Mr. Boyer said. "To accomplish this, the lander will carry a variety of instruments for digging into the soil, analyzing samples and taking panoramic pictures of the Martian landscape. The spacecraft will be sterilized before launch to prevent earth micro-organisms from being transferred to Mars."

After achieving a synchroous orbit around Mars, the Viking lander will separate from the orbiter and descend by parachute and descent rockets toward the surface. During the descent, it will gather information on the density, temperature and pressure of the Martian atmosphere and radio this data via the UHF system to the orbiter, according to Mr. Boyer.

He said that within 24 hours after touching down on Mars, the S-band system with a steerable antenna will take over, broadcasting meteorological, seismicological and biological information directly back to Earth. The signals will take 20 minutes to reach Earth.

Transmissions from the Viking lander and orbiter will be received by 210-foot tracking antennas located in California, Australia and Spain.

Princeton office, 242 1/2 Nassau Street.

Active in the Princeton business community since 1963, Mr. Huntress owned and operated the Happy House gift shop in the Shopping Center until last year. His sales career has included assignments in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey as a specialty sales manager, merchandise manager and store manager with Sears, Roebuck & Co.

He lives at 10 Sycamore Lane, Montgomery Township, with his wife, Bette, and son, Edward.

OFFICERS ELECTED

At Grover Lumber. At its annual meeting last week the Grover Lumber Company elected William J. P. Geddes, president; Franklyn T. Reading, vice-president and secretary; and Beverly Emery, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Mr. Geddes, Mr. Reading and Mrs. John B. Grover. The firm is located at 184-208 Alexander Street.

GLASS COMPANY SOLD

To Norman Fowler, Jr. Norman R. "Dick" Fowler, Jr. of Hopewell-Pennington Road, Hopewell, assumed ownership of the Nini Glass Company of Princeton this week. Located at 811 State Road, the firm will now be known as Nassau Glass Company, Inc.

Mr. Fowler, a lifelong resident of the Hopewell-Princeton area with 13 years' experience in the glass business, said that the new firm will service all residential glass needs. Specialities will include custom mirrors, storefronts, storm windows and doors, table tops, porch and patio screening and conversion, insurance claim work and auto glass.

A veteran member of the Naval Reserve, Mr. Fowler is active in the YMCA, is an exempt member of the Princeton Hook and Ladder Co., and a former member of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. He has been involved for many years in the Hopewell Valley Jaycees, holding numerous offices.

WORKSHOP MOVES

To the Marketplace. Country Workshop, formerly Country Workshop II, has moved from Route 1, Princeton, to the Marketplace on Routes 27 and 518. The move was made to provide a more convenient and accessible showplace for Country Workshop's line of ready-to-finish hardwood furniture.

All customers who are waiting for orders will be contacted when their furniture arrives for pick-up at the Marketplace. For further information, the new telephone number is (201) 297-1887.

MORE FACTS OFFERED

On New Telephone Bills. Ever wonder how long you really spent on the telephone last month when you called Uncle Harry in Florida to wish him a happy birthday or when you called Grandmother in Chicago to thank her for the gift she sent?

Within the next few weeks, all customers of New Jersey Bell Telephone Company who dial their own long distance and toll calls directly will be able to find out not only how long they spoke but exactly what time of the day the call was made—just by looking at their monthly bill.

The improved look in billing will provide customers with some of the information that they most often ask their local business office when they make inquiries about calls and charges. Introduction of the slightly-revised billing form already has been started in the northern half of the state and will begin shortly in the southern portion as soon as the older, less detailed billing forms are used up.

Customer inquiries about billing or any other company information should be

Improve your ad vantage

by Bud Graver
New Jersey Bell
Yellow Pages Representative

"Just how good are you?"

That's a question prospects will be asking when they see your advertising. If you want their business, you'd better give them an answer. And filling your message with meaningless superlatives isn't the answer. Not in today's marketplace.

Often the last opportunity you'll have to bring a buyer your way is in the Yellow Pages. Remember that 9 out of 10 people follow up their Yellow Pages references with a call, visit or written response. So pay special attention to your ad there.

Start by planning an ad that will look appealing and invite readership. If you have a lot to say, don't try to squeeze it into a tiny ad.

Aim your headline at the readers' needs and develop your story logically. It tells readers you're concerned about them.

Include your credentials and tell how you're different from your competitors. Tell about your location, your services. ### Public's Views Sought

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On Tuesday, June 11, at 8:00 p.m. in Borough Hall, Princeton Borough Council will discuss two important issues.

The first is a proposed animal restraint ordinance which would require, among other things, that all dogs in the Borough be secured by a leash and under the control of a responsible person, when the dog is not on the owner's premises. The proposed ordinance also provides authority to the Borough Health Officer to pick up and hold vicious dogs which bite or otherwise molest neighbors or passers-by.

The second issue that will be discussed is the Borough's garbage collection program. The Borough's collection contract soon will expire, and Council would benefit from public comments, criticisms, and suggestions on the recycling program, frequency of collections, or any other related issue.

I hope all those interested in these two community issues will be able to attend our meeting on the 11th and present their views.

ROBERT S. POWELL
Borough Councilman

School Bond Issue Backed

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is a letter to the Princeton Regional Board of Education and the Princeton community from William K. Selden, chairman of the long-range planning committee for the Princeton schools.

As we approach the June 25 date for a public vote on a bond issue to finance the renovation of the Princeton High School building, I wish to indicate publicly my strong support for this long-overdue measure. The Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long Range Planning, for which I had the privilege of serving as chairman, stated in its final report of May 1971 that the present structure "should be thoroughly renovated."

This recommendation was submitted to the Board of Education with full realization that the anticipated reduction in enrollment, which has subsequently materialized, would only partially alleviate some of the pressures on students and teachers. The agonies of teaching and learning in a definitely obsolete building have not been abated. The need for physical renovation and improvement continue and require attention-attention that has been too long delayed.

As will undoubtedly be the reaction of most citizens, who are being urged to vote on this bond issue, I am filled with consternation at the total currently estimated cost of the planned renovation. However, I am likewise appalled at the rapidly rising costs for food, fuel, housing, and the many other necessities of life. Because of the inflationary financial pressures, I believe that a further delay in the needed physical renovation of the high school will only defer costs that will be even much larger and no easier to meet at a later date.

In writing this statement of support for the action of the Board of Education I would be remiss if I did not remind the members of the Board that not only are they elected to represent the interests and concerns of the citizens of the

Shuttle Bus to Start at 7:30 a.m. Monday

Early morning and late afternoon riders will be able to ride the shuttle bus from Jadwin parking lot into Princeton starting at 7:30 a.m. Monday, June 10. The morning bus will continue its runs until 9 a.m., then begin again at 4:30 and continue until 6 p.m. The route is from Jadwin parking lot up Alexander Street to University Place, to Nassau. Then the bus will go along Nassau to Princeton Avenue, and thence to the Jadwin lot to begin all over again. The fare will be 25 cents.

If you have suggestions, comments or criticisms about the new loop and shuttle bus routes, you're invited to Township Hall on Monday, June 17 at 8 p.m. That meeting of Township Committee will be an open-door meeting for bus comments.

For example, some residents of Riverside don't want a particular bus stop. But it's near Woodside; how do Woodside residents feel about dropping the stop? Same situation in the Terhune-Dempsey area. Terhune residents don't want the bus stop, but how do Dempsey residents feel?

Many riders and non-riders, have asked to have the loop bus start earlier than 9 a.m. and end later than 4 p.m. The Joint Transportation Commission doesn't think that enough people now use the bus to warrant subsidizing the loop for longer hours. Increased use of the bus, members say, might persuade them to ask Borough Council and Township Committee for the additional money.

community but also to make decisions, no matter how hard to reach, when the facts have been presented and considered.

The formal decision to renovate the present high school building could have been reached in much less time, following the recommendations of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Long Range Planning in the spring of 1971, and at less cost to the community. I urge the Board of Education to establish procedures of operation by which decisions can be made in a more expeditious manner.

At the same time I strongly urge the citizens of the community to vote in support of the proposed high school bond issue on June 25.

Readership and Results.

To the Editor of Town Topics: On behalf of the Princeton High School Class of '74, I would like to thank TOWN TOPICS for its March 28 story describing the variety of local organizations offering financial assistance to high school seniors. The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation was one of the organizations mentioned.

Your article has not only brought good fortune to the Foundation but, even more importantly, has given the community a better understanding of our program—to help all Princeton High School seniors who require financial assistance to continue their education or training and whose total need is not met by any other source. I would like to share with you three of the happy results of your story:

1. A Princeton High School senior, whose middle income family thought it could not receive financial assistance although faced with the problem of college tuition for several children next year, decided to apply to the Foundation for a grant after reading your article. The professional who evaluates the financial status of each applicant to the Foundation determined the family was, indeed, eligible. The senior will receive a grant which, hopefully, will somewhat ease next year's financial pressure on this family.

2. A potential donor who had never responded to our fund appeals contributed a sizeable

3. An organization has been considering possible recipients for disbursement of their funds. After your article, they decided the Foundation's aims were philosophically close to theirs. Their donation helped us reach our goal for this year.

The Princeton High School Class of '74 and the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation are grateful to TOWN TOPICS. We will never underestimate the power of the press—or its capacity for doing good!

Eliot Daley, formerly president of Small World, which produced the children's TV show, "Mister Rogers Neighborhood," has formed his own company, Princeton Child Development Associates, to advise schools, hospitals and other institutions engaged in planning buildings, programs and products for children.

He is also behind "Daley Programs," set up to produce films and TV programs for children. His priority project -- an innovation in TV -- is a person-to-person news program designed to answer questions young viewers raise (often just to themselves): "Could I be kidnapped and brain-washed?" or "What would happen if they put the President in jail?"

An ordained Presbyterian minister (San Francisco Theological Seminary), he served on the staff of Princeton's First Presbyterian Church from 1967 to 1970, when he left for Small World. He lives at 159 Hickory Court with his wife, Patti, and three children: Alison, 11, Shannon, 9 and Jad, 5.

The Rising Generation

(In a recent interview with Town Topics, Mr. Daley offered the following observations regarding children and TV. Bullets suggest what Mr. Daley calls "random observations.")

••• We don't yet know the long-term impact of television on kids, but there IS a deprivation. I feel torn between two positions: I want to say "Toss out all TV" and at the same time, "We can do so much more with this—there is a way we can really serve kids!"

••• TV buffets kids in what I call a "quadrangle of confusion." They see a constant stream of events, with no distinction made between the real and the non-real. Within a 60-minute period, they see real people doing pretend things—a flying nun; unreal people doing real things—the Flintstones; unreal people doing unreal things—Superman in a cartoon.

Pre-school youngsters, and I'm talking about kids two to six years old—don't have the capacity to make distinctions, emotionally or conceptually. Their emotions are engaged, regardless of their ability to discriminate on a cognitive level.

(But I shouldn't say that kids alone are buffeted in this way: how many of us can say whether a space shot is real, or a simulation from Bethpage, Long Island? And who of us believed a single word of "Love Story," but we shed gallons of tears!)

••• Kids emotions are tweaked, taunted and played on like an instrument by a lot of TV producers and people with commercial interests. A psychologist who has prostituted himself—herself!—will say "Do THIS in your commercial, and a kid will run to mother to buy your product."

Mostly, TV programs are created by people with no knowledge of children. A few hours of TV are done by people who do understand, fewer still, by people who put their knowledge at the service of the viewing child. Most of the others are strictly at the service of the advertiser. What a shame! It's not worthy of the children, of course. But neither is it worthy of the life effort of those who do it.

••• Children are confused by TV's capacity to confound the boundaries and horizons that we adults approached gradually, as we matured. A kid doesn't know when—or ever!—a thing on TV happened.

I remember one bleak, rainy late afternoon, in November. I was watching a football game from southern California. Sunny, everybody in the stadium in shirt-sleeves. My daughter, four or five years old, climbed on my knee and said, "When did they make this movie?"

So I explained about time-zones and weather-zones, and by the way she was looking at me, I knew all my parental credibility was going right down the tube. Eventually, though, she was beginning to believe me, almost, when—instant replay! Now, how do you explain that? I told her to run and get me a bottle of beer and come back for an explanation when she was 15.

••• How far away is Captain Kangaroo? Is he in that box? Nobody ever told kids differently. If some things really are inside that box, it's enough to be real scary—monsters, and things.

You see a big, strong wolf harrassing an innocent rabbit, or a big cat chasing a little bird. You identify with the little one, and maybe you then have problems trusting big people.

Not that Grimm's fairy-tales don't have violence and children have heard them for a long time. But the stories were read to us by someone who loved us, as we sat on a lap. If it got too bad, we could always jump down and go to the bathroom. Or we could say, "But there aren't really witches, are there, grandma?" Or a parent could flip a few pages ahead, monitor the story and leave out what might be disturbing. There is no such "monitoring" of television.

In fact, we feel instinctively we have a right to say what our kids should READ, but we don't exercise that right for TV. Although parents do feel guilty and defensive about allowing their kids to watch so much TV.

••• When you think about it—this is the first time in history that any source has had direct access to pre-school children without the consent of the parent, the school or the church!

We just aren't programmed to cope with TV as parents. Even young parents, who grew up watching Howdy Doody, aren't doing any better. It will take two or three generations.

••• The Boy Scouts did a study, asking kids age 9-11 what they did after school. TV was Number One—28-38 hours a week! The Number Two activity, whatever it was, drew only two or three hours a week.

The questionnaire also asked, "If I were to watch you having a really good time, what would I see you doing?" TV-watching was 13th in preference in a list of 14. Kids mentioned model-making, picnicking—ANYTHING but TV.

So, if a kid spends 20-plus hours, where do these hours come from? "Just fooling around"—that's what gets lost. "Reality testing" gets lost, too; you know, those are the hours when you discover it's smarter to put your lemonade stand at the intersection than in the middle of the block, or when you find out how many Christmas trees make a fort.

TV deprives kids of this. And it deprives them of—boredom. Because boredom is the seedbed of imagination, creativity. It's terribly important.

••• I think we can make a start by helping parents become aware of what kids need. They'd realize that boredom and "fooling around" have great importance. (And one "need" is "parental prerogative," which is something we tend to forget!)

Well, nobody is going to throw TV away—it's the Trojan horse of technology. So we must try to refine its impact. When you are up against a powerful force, you shape it as much as you can so that its energy can be put to more constructive uses and that, according to our lights, is what we try to do with TV.

A Look at Princeton in a Time of Long Ago

When the trustees, faculty and graduating class of the Princeton Theological Seminary marched into the Princeton University Chapel Tuesday morning for their 162 annual Commencement, the head marshal leading the procession was a man whose name has been associated with more than 70 such graduations.

Lefferts Loetscher, professor of church history at the Seminary for more than 30 years, has carried on a tradition of scholarship begun by his father, the late Frederick W. Loetscher, who was also a professor of church history at the Seminary. This June the active participation of the Loetschers in the proceedings of the Theological Seminary comes to an end as Lefferts Loetscher begins his retirement.

Dr. Loetscher last week reflected on the town that he first saw in 1904 as a six-week-old infant and in which he has lived most of his nearly 70 years.

"I remember when the grocery store we traded with gave up its horse and buggy and got a motorized delivery truck," Dr. Loetscher mused. "One by one, all the stores gave up their horses and wagons--no supermarkets then--and each time it was a big event."

"There were so few cars in town when I was a boy that sometimes for weeks in winter, the chief mode of transportation was sleighs. We boys used to hitch our sleds behind a passing sleigh and get a free ride. The easiest sleigh to hitch to was the garbageman's--nobody wanted that spot on account of the smells."

Greek at 12. Young Loetscher got a rigorous education, first at Miss Fine's School, then at Lawrenceville, and finally at Princeton, from which he graduated in 1925. (He later earned graduate degrees, including a Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.) Miss Fine's was a private school primarily for girls, but it took a few boys in the lower grades.

"We began Latin at 10 and Greek at 12," Dr. Loetscher said. "The only thing I reproach those schools for is that they had no idea how to teach modern languages. I remember in my first French class at Lawrenceville, the teacher said, 'Close the door,' in French. Nobody understood, and that was the last word of French we heard in the class."

In a section now crowded with houses, out Mercer Street toward Lawrenceville, he recalled the Moses Taylor Pyne estate stretched for many acres. With two other large estates, both now also broken up for housing, it occupied a large share of the western section of the community.

Controversy. Dr. Loetscher's own Seminary student days covered the period of the famous controversy between ultra-fundamentalists, led by J. Gresham Machen, and other faculty members who were somewhat less conservative. This theological battle ended with a split-off of the ultra-fundamentalist faction to found a seminary more to their liking.

"So some of the students who were in my class never came back to Princeton," Professor Loetscher said. "They went with the other faction. I think of John Mackay as the second founder of the Seminary," he said, referring to the president who took office in 1933. "He put the Seminary together after the controversy, and managed to gather people around him like himself--combining genuine piety and real scholarship."

CHURCH HISTORIAN: Lefferts Loetscher, professor of church history at Princeton Seminary, retires this month after more than 30 years at the Seminary. After traveling with his wife to Germany this summer, Dr. Loetscher will return to complete a history of the Seminary, of which he and his father were a part for more than seven decades.

Two Eras of Beards. Dr. Loetscher's affection for Princeton Seminary has remained undiminished through all manner of upheavals--theological, as in the controversies of the 1920's, and political, as during the Vietnam War. It is probably his historian's perspective--that enables him to view these and other changes with equanimity.

"I have been through two eras of beards, even," he said. "My father's generation and mine were two beardless ones. But before that, when I was growing up, all the old professors had beards. Now all the young students do."

"I remember when Seminary students were not supposed to be married. The professors said it would distract them from their work."

The professors were all married, though, and it didn't seem to distract them from their work."

Church History. The professor's own published works are numerous, perhaps the best known volume being "The Broadening Church." He has also served on innumerable commissions and committees of the United Presbyterian Church, and as editor-in-chief of the 20th Century Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

He has been president of the American Society of Church History, and has contributed articles and sections to several encyclopedias and compendia of religious knowledge. After a trip to Germany, on which Dr.

You wouldn't buy carpeting without comparing quality and price per square foot.

Why not the same comparison when you buy a house?

Did you know that our cluster house costs less per square foot?

Our cluster house gives you more actual living space and more modern living conveniences than a lot of single homes. For a lot less money. Hard to believe? It's even harder when you see the basement. It's big.

Did you ever think of an entry court as an outdoor room?

That's the way we want you to think of ours. It's large enough for small dinner parties. And private enough to have fun without disturbing your neighbors.

Would you like to put together your own floor plan?

Our five floor plans make it easy to think you're getting a custom house. All our plans are different and they all have good one-floor traffic flow. You can pick a plan with two or three bedrooms. With one or two baths. And with a fireplace or without a fireplace.

Is central air conditioning a must?

We consider anything that makes your living more enjoyable a must. That includes central air conditioning. A kitchen complete with self-cleaning range and range hood, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and disposal. And more. Baths with shiny ceramic tile around the tub and shower, and a handsome vanette. And lots and lots of closet space.

Would you like a house in the center of everything?

Our cluster houses are within reach of everything. Lighted bicycle paths, play areas and a planned swimming pool are right outside your door. The beautiful old restored houses and shops of Mount Holly are only four blocks away. And schools and good shopping centers within walking distance.

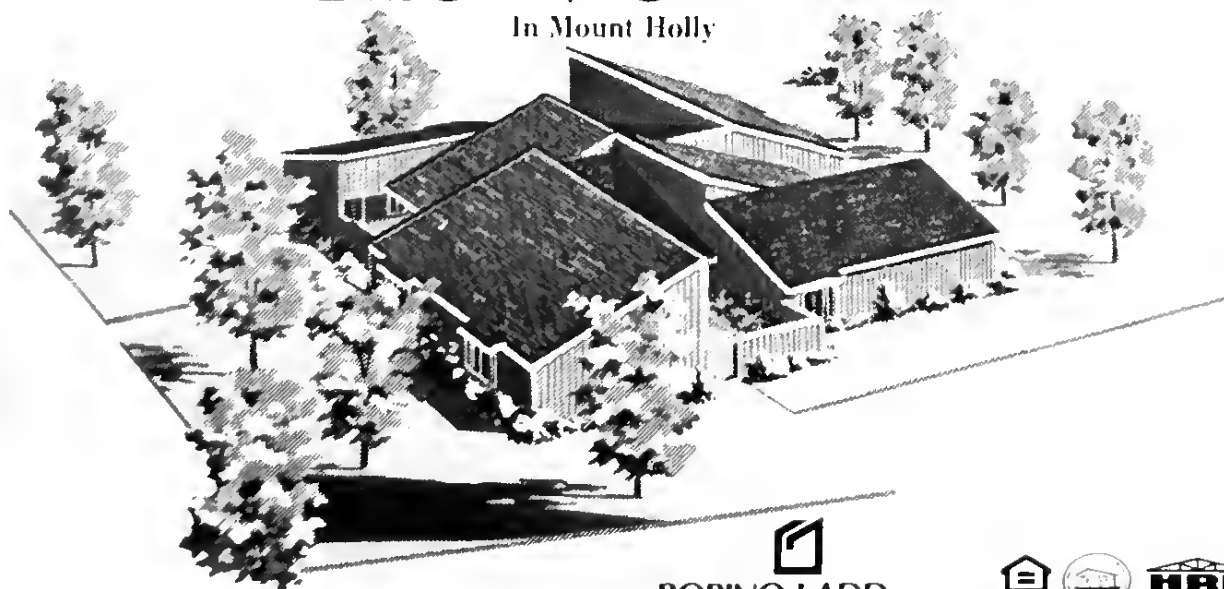

The cluster house. It measures up and beyond.

Directions: I-295 to 541 Exit or New Jersey Turnpike to Exit 5 (Mount Holly 541). 2 miles east on 41 to 4th traffic light, turn right on Levis Drive to Regent's Park. Samples open daily 11-7. Phone 609-261-1146.

Princetonians Love Concerts But Facilities For Good Listening Are Largely Non-Existent

"It gives me a pain in the neck," says the suave and continental Maida Pollock in her charming Hungarian accent, "and please quote me."

"It" is the sorry state of concert space in the suave and continental and affluent Princeton community. The concert season is now over. Maida Pollock, as Princeton University's concert lady, has conducted an assortment of baggage-laden symphony orchestras, eccentric soloists, earnest chamber music players and what have you, through the various movements of the 1973-74 concert season, and the pain in her vertebrae has just begun to subside. It will begin again in October.

There are four places in Princeton where musical events are held. All are inadequate. The music-loving, concert-going community is growing.

"People buy tickets to a concert and they say to me, 'Are you REALLY having a concert THERE' and I have to shrug and say 'Well, yes,'"

Steady Growth. When Mrs. Pollock came to Princeton University ten years ago, the new Woolworth Center for Musical Studies held, in that 1964-65 season, exactly three student concerts. There are now two dozen a season. Money for these student presentations comes from the Friends of Music, and the public comes and pays no admission and the programs are very good programs a concert-goer could never hear anywhere else.

"But all are held in the rehearsal room," Mrs. Pollock points out. "We can only have them twice a week. The room is too small for a concert grand, the audience is too close. You can't do anything with even a small chamber orchestra or a staged performance. I remember we once had a little opera with a tiny orchestra, but it was makeshift."

"Then, of course -- 10 McCosh. We have chamber concerts there because the acoustics are fairly pleasant, but it's an English department lecture room. No Green Room for artists, although some very nice faculty let musicians use their offices, but you do feel you are intruding. No bathrooms -- we are at the mercy of kind professors."

"We have to haul a studio grand piano up those two flights of stairs, and Bohren's charges $160 a round trip each time and we do this half a dozen times a year, which is a lot of arithmetic. The stage is too small for more than a quintet -- I'm always terrified that a violinist will jab a violin's eye out with the end of the bow!"

Too Many Stairs. "And those stairs! No elevator. We get wistful telephone calls from people who say they'd love to subscribe to our

NO, SHE DOESN'T MOVE PIANOS: Maida Pollock, trained in Europe as a professional musician, now administers pianos instead of playing them. As the prime mover in Princeton University's concert affairs, she wishes the Princeton community had better, more permanent and more professional concert facilities. (Then she wouldn't have to spend so much time arranging for pianos to be moved.)

chamber series, but just can't climb those stairs. Parking is miserable, of course. And scheduling -- we try to schedule one year ahead, but we're always running into exams or lectures."

A sentimental affinity exists between 10 McCosh and Nassau Hall. Chamber music being what it is, a concert will start briskly at 8:30 with a rousing first movement. Then, just as the piece is well into its second movement, probably the quiet one with pianissimo passages -- the 9 p.m. Nassau Hall curfew bell will sound, loud and clear.

Some performers imply stop and wait. Peter Westergaard, about to conduct the Princeton University orchestra (elsewhere than in 10 McCosh, actually), once got electricians to stop the Nassau Hall clock mechanism. Cost $30 but it brought a quiet second movement.

Hot evenings in early fall or late spring, McCosh's open windows bring into the concert room the bark of every dog, the merry conversation of every voice passing beneath.

No top-flight pianists can be booked into 10 McCosh, by the way. Bohren's cannot move the nine-foot concert grand around those stairs and landings.

Now There's a Building! Strolling the campus, we next come to Alexander Hall, used for everything from the "Eroica" to hard rock. At least, it has no classrooms. It has no bathrooms for the public, either, and no Green Room for the musicians except the room that holds the lighting panel. It's approximately the size of a stateroom in a Marx Brothers movie and can hold about three people at one time. Alexander's arc-shaped hallway is unheated, precluding intermission strolls at winter concerts.

Not long ago, the stage was extended to accommodate the Princeton University Glee Club plus an orchestra, but it's still small.

"I'm a nervous wreck," Mrs. Pollock continues, "waiting for the last chairs in the violin section to fall off the stage." The Glee Club likes Alexander for voices, but it has peculiar acoustics for strings: half the orchestra can't hear the other half.

McCarter Has Problems. Too. And lastly, we come to McCarter.

"We hold University Concerts here because there is no place else to go," Mrs. Pollock shrugs. "It is bad because its acoustics are those of a good theatre, not a good concert hall. And it's a busy theatre: any other event is a real pain for them, and I don't blame them."

"They must strike their sets just for one concert -- I have sat backstage during concerts in simply elegant Elizabethan thrones, or whatever -- and then strike the concert set. It costs a fortune to do this and it's union labor of course, and it interferes with the regular life of the theatre."

"We can't store a piano there, and again we move; $122 round trip, to get a piano to McCarter's stage and back. University Concerts pays this, and of course pays rent to McCarter."

George Szell complained to Mrs. Pollock about McCarter's facilities and vowed he would never bring the Cleveland Orchestra here again. But then he died, and the Clevelanders have, of course, returned.

In a giddy moment, somebody thought of using Jadwin Gym for a concert: a big place might mean a big ticket sale, and so on. The manager of the Chicago Symphony said, OK. But the concert was "an experiment that failed," Mrs. Pollock says delicately, "acoustics were no good at all. It was like playing outdoors — all concrete and reverberations. It simply wasn't built for concerts."

Not Planned for Music. A study last year, made by a University committee which included Mrs. Pollock, set down in scholarly form what everybody knew already: not one of these facilities was indeed built for concerts.

"The ideal," Mrs. Pollock thinks, "would be a hall for big concerts — 1,200 to 1,500 seats (McCarter holds 1,077) and a good, small hall seating 300 to 500, with facilities for electronic music and rehearsals."

Mrs. Pollock did some population studies for this report. Princeton is a small town and even when surrounding countryside is considered, the area has only 40,000 people.

"If you say that 5 percent are concert-goers — and the manager of the Chicago Symphony says we should consider only two or three percent — you get only 2,000 people. The proximity to New York and Philadelphia is important, too: people go there to hear music. Orchestras are having a hard time financially; Pittsburgh just doesn't tour any more because it's too expensive. So this argues for a smaller hall, used extensively by students and others. It could support itself more easily."

Westminster Choir College? No, Mrs. Pollock shakes her head. "We think it would be insane to have two large public halls and we have been in touch with Westminster about their building plans, but they have nothing we can use now."

A concert hall is not high on the University's list of essentials although if some benefactor produced $5 million for a concert hall ...

The University Concerts are self-sustaining, although they have not sold out their subscriptions since 1965. Artists' fees range from $1,500 to $12,000 with $5,000 a fair average.

"We book top-quality artists, we may spend less money and book an unknown, but that means we sell fewer tickets."

"What all this means, is that our musical decisions must be based on non-musical considerations, and this is what gives me a pain in the neck! That, and getting the piano moved. And I often think, Princeton concert-goers are used to all this — they don't know how much better it all COULD be!"

PLANS APPROVED

For Dutch Neck School. The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School Board has approved architect Frank Miller's final plans and specifications for the renovation and expansion of the Dutch Neck School. The approval was granted at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education. The plans and specifications will now be submitted to the New Jersey State Department of Education for its approval.

The plans were developed by Mr. Miller in consultation with the members of the Dutch Neck Project Task Force. The Task Force is composed of members of the administrative staff, teachers and parents. Following the vote of approval, Mr. Richard Snedeker, Board president, thanked the members of the Task Force for their "thorough and detailed job."

The Board also approved the appointments of the staff of the 1974 Summer School as well as the members of various elementary and high school curriculum committees. Mr. Donald Mannain, guidance counselor, was also appointed to work on student scheduling at the high school for one month during the summer.

In other instructional matters, the Board approved the granting of a maternity leave to Mrs. Gail Foley, a mathematics teacher at the high school and accepted the resignations of six teachers.

The Board also accepted the resignation of Charles Knipple, Board Secretary-Business Manager, effective August 1, 1974. In commenting on Mr. Knipple's resignation, Board member Robert Duncan said he was "disappointed with the turnover in this position" and felt the Board should "look carefully at the job and its demands."

Radio Station Proposed. In other school matters the Board adopted a resolution authorizing the Superintendent of Schools to submit the necessary F.C.C. application to permit the operation of an Educational F.M. Broadcast Radio Station at the high school. Plans for the use of the radio station are included in the high school curriculum for the coming school year.

The Board also received a report from Mr. Walter Golden, Clerk of the Works, on the monthly progress of the construction of the high school. He stated that much of the remaining work is corrective in nature however, the progress to date has been unsatisfactory. In commenting on the progress, Mr. James Davis, Board member, stated that the Board wanted to assure the community that it is aware of this problem and is taking appropriate action.

Mr. Duncan reported that the Board has received a number of requests for the use of the high school facilities by community organizations and the reason they are not being approved, at the present time, is that the facility has not been fully accepted by the architect.

Dr. Hadden explained that in some instances, such as the use of the tennis courts, the contractor has authorized the school to use the facility in its present condition until the final finishing coat is applied. Conditions such as this prevent use of the various facilities by the community at the present time. Mr. Duncan assured those in attendance that the high school was designed with extensive use by the community in mind and that this was still the philosophy of the Board.

The Board also received a notification from Miss Annabelle Hawke, third grade teacher at the Plainsboro School, stating that she planned to retire at the close of the school year. Mr. Duncan moved that the Board accept Miss Hawke's request with regret and thank her for her 39 years of devoted and dedicated service to the school district.

In other personnel matters the Board appointed Mr. C. Bergen Groendyke as school auditor, William C. Baggitt, Esq. as school attorney and Mr. Walter L. Myers, Jr. as Custodian of School Funds. All appointments are for the 1974-75 school year.

Mr. Donald M. Rizzo, principal of the Plainsboro School, presented a report on the activities that had taken place in his building. He reported that 23 Plainsboro residents have registered their children for the 1974-75 kindergarten class. Mr. Rizzo also informed the Board that these students, as well as the West Windsor kindergarten students who will attend the Plainsboro School next year, have already visited the school and kindergarten classroom, as part of the district's visitation program for new kindergarten registrants.

A Titter ran through the audience

RETURNS
JUNE 7-8
85th TRIANGLE SHOW

921-8760

News Of The THEATRES

TRIANGLE BACK

Two Encores. "A Titter Ran Through the Audience," Triangle's 85th comedy musical, will play McCarter twice this weekend, and tickets are now available.

The show will return for its pair of encores this Friday and Saturday, both at 8:30.

"A Titter Ran Through the Audience" is a satirical telethon sponsored by the Concrete Foundation to raise funds for combating the disease, "hehoprenia." There is choreography by Joan Morton Lucas, student-written comedy sketches and original musical numbers assembled under the direction of Milton Lyon.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

For "Mattress" Production. Auditions for singers, dancers and actors will be held for the musical comedy "Once Upon A Mattress" on Friday, June 14, and Monday, June 17, in the Community Room of the Trenton Times, 500 South Perry Street, Trenton. Both auditions will begin at 7:30.

The show, which consists of three female leads, six male leads and a chorus, will be presented in the Open Air Theatre at Washington Crossing State Park on August 16, 17, 22, 23 and 24. The play is being produced by Company Unlimited, which produced "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" in the Park last summer.

Ina R. Wilner will produce the direct the production. Musical direction is by Elaine Hagaman and orchestral direction is by Tom Hagaman. For more information call 609-587-7908.

TRYOUTS!

For "1776". Singers, actors or people who are a little of both are invited to audition for the Theatre-By-The-Lake production of "1776," to be presented July 10, 11, 12 and 13.

Tryouts will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday, June 11 and 12 at 7 p.m. in Genger Reeves Hall on the campus of Peddie School, Hightstown. The cast requires 22 men and two women; both women's roles require singers. All rehearsals will be weekday evenings between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. for four and one-half weeks.

Subsequent productions of Theatre-By-The-Lake, which is at Peddie, will be "Plaza Suite," "Company," and "Fiddler on the Roof." Jeffrey

R. Holcombe and Francis A. Towne are co-directors. They have also sent out a call for assistant stage-managers, publicity workers, back-stage crew and properties volunteers.

BUCKS TO OPEN MONDAY

Theatre Ready for Summer. The Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope will open its 12-week summer season next Monday with "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the play adapted from Ken Kesey's novel. Bucks will offer the play for two weeks, through Saturday, June 22. Tickets (and subscriptions for the season) may be ordered at 215-862-2041.

The Playhouse will run this summer with a small, flexible company of actors, rather than with a star-package system. Producing Managers Pennsylvania Company, New York-based, is running the Bucks County Playhouse on a five-year summer lease from BBC, Inc., the non-profit group of local citizens now raising funds to buy and operate the theatre year-round.

After "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the Playhouse will offer "The Mind with the Dirty Man," "The Promise," "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," "The New Mt. Olive Motel" and "That Championship Season."

PROGRAM PLANNED

Featuring Harpsichord Music. Dr. Francis Hopper of Mt. Holyoke College, will present a program of harpsichord music at The Columbus Boychoir School this Thursday, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Hopper is a noted composer, as well as a famous editor of 18th century music. He brought to light harpsichord and organ music composed by William Hayes which lay dormant in the British Museum for more than 150 years.

Following his undergraduate work at the University of Michigan, Dr. Hopper received his Doctorate in Sacred Music from Union Theological Seminary in New York, and has been made a Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford, England.

The concert is open to the public.

GARDEN

Badlands. In the late 1950s, Charles Starkweather, 19, accompanied by his 14-year old sweetheart, Carole Fugate, embarked in an orgy of murder in the Mid-west that ultimately reached 10 victims. Starkweather was executed, while Ms. Fugate has recently been released from her life sentence.

Badlands is a haunting film.

good reasons for dining out

Dining out makes good sense...

- ★ no dishes to wash
- ★ no pots to scrub
- ★ no shopping to do
- ★ no left-overs to eat
- ★ it's just plain enjoyable and really, when you get down to costs and consider all the conveniences it's just about as costly to eat at home.

Put this all on top of the fine food you get at the Nassau Inn...

- ★ plus the wonderful atmosphere
- ★ plus the splendid service and you have truly impressive reasons for dining out at the Nassau Inn.

And to top it all — at the Nassau Inn in Princeton, you can pick from

- ★ three of the finest restaurants in the area.

There's no place quite like the "Nass" and there's no time like now to enjoy eating out... to the fullest.

detailing their murderous spree by 29-year old director Terence Malick who has taken the basic facts and woven them into a harshly poetic, sometimes beautiful piece of work that was acclaimed at the N.Y. Film Fest. Unlike Bonnie and Clyde which glorified crime, Badlands strikes a different chord of the American experience: the numbing effect that drew out of the stark lethargy of the '50s; the casual violence of the couple is a desperate cry for a sense of self.

The pathetic attempt for a chance at immortality is sensed as Starkweather begins to turn casually ruthless in eluding the growing manhunt. He seems to murder not so much out of fear and anger but because murder may provide the one definite way of leaving something behind. As he waits in an airport for his extradition at the end, Starkweather gives away the contents of his pockets as souvenirs. If nothing else, at least he is a celebrity. Martin Sheen and Sissy Spacek give extremely naturalistic performances as the childish, amoral couple. They perform their grisly murders with the easy confidence and detachment of precocious children. Ringing with truth in its dialogues and images, "Badlands" makes an effective statement for its time.

PLAYHOUSE
Serpico is an excellent filming of Peter Maas's best-selling biography of Frank Serpico, the offbeat New York detective whose long and arduous attempts to expose police corruption eventually led to the Knapp Commission. The film is well written and marked by Al Pacino's brilliant, understated performance as Serpico.

While there is a good deal of action, the main focus of director Sidney Lumet is on Serpico's paradoxical offbeat character -- one which managed to mingle a deep-rooted commitment to policework with a bohemian life-style. There are insights into his family relationships, his casual love life and that of a deeper conflict-ridden relationship with another woman.

Lumet graphically and meticulously portrays the inch-by-inch transformation of Serpico's character from a sincere, wide-eyed rookie to a hardened, sour veteran and made a memorable film in the process.

HARPSICHORDS GALORE
At Choir College. For the second consecutive year the Westminster Choir College will host a Harpsichord Festival Week, starting Monday, June 17, through Saturday, June 22. Dr. Frances Cole, harpsichordist and assistant professor of music at Westminster and Queens College in New York, is the founder and artistic coordinator of the festival. The program will bring together leading solo recitalists, teachers, musicologists, composers, harpsichord builders, students and enthusiasts. A series of evening concerts will be presented Monday through Friday at 8 in the Bristol Chapel, highlighted by the appearance Wednesday of Eubie Blake, the ragtime pianist, and Slam Stewart, the jazz bassist. They will appear as part of an informal evening of music, from pre-Baroque through jazz. The Millstone Trio, the Montgomery Friends of Early Music, the Princeton Ballet Society, Joyce Rawlings and Donald Stagg, and soprano Susan Robinson will also perform.

Evening solo recitals on harpsichord will be performed by Dr. Cole, Fernando Valenti, Igor Kipnis and Gustav Leonhardt. All evening concerts are $5 for adults and $3 for students, space permitting. A major feature of the Festival will be an exhibition and display of more than 25 different harpsichords. Old and new models will be shown by different manufacturers and collectors.

New Works. A composers' forum and workshop will be held from 1 to 5 Wednesday. Composers will participate in general discussion and hearings of new works. Other lectures and programs will be held each day from 10 to noon and from 3 to 5.

Tuition for the Festival Week is $140, with room and board on campus set at $60. Per diem rate is $28. The fee for individual master classes is $15. For information call Charles Schisler, 924-7416.

Can You Pull a Mobile Stage Trailer?

With a car or truck, of course; needn't be done by hand. Street Theatre, about to set forth on its summertime journeys, needs a pulling vehicle July 15-21; August 5-11, August 19-25 for its stage-trailer. Auditions for the first of Street Theatre's three productions will be held Monday and Tuesday, June 17 and 18, at Dorothea House, Avalon Place, Princeton. Anyone seventh grade or older, is invited. Winners in Street Theatre's annual script contest have provided the three original plays that will constitute Street Theatre's second production of the season. Geoff Becker, sophomore at Princeton High, has won $25 for "Paradise," a play focusing on various illusions of heaven. Two South Brunswick High juniors, Lee Wittenberg and John Mochel, are sharing $25 for "The Mysterious Case of the Maltese Peacock," a mystery parody, and James Beckerman has won $25 for "Garbage," a play exploring the gasoline shortage. This is the second year in a row that he has won a Street Theatre prize. Workshops will be held this summer on weekday mornings from 10:30 until noon, in silk-screen and design (Adrienne Brockway, teacher); voice for theatre (Clyde Tipton, Rider College professor); theatrical make-up (Rosary O'Brien, Rider College actress-in-residence); stage movement (Heidi Bunting, Dance Co-op); dances of the '20s, '30s, '40s, (Carol Wimborg, PHS choreographer); improvisation (Brian Delate, Rider student and actor); and How to Sell a Song for Musical Comedy (Deborah Bellow, voice specialist). Workshops will be held at Dorothea House. Additional information is available from 921-8916 or 921-8826.

detailed in this $12 million film—too detailed. Running two and one-half hours, the film is much too long. It has its moments—the multiple escape attempts are exciting in themselves—but what Papillon ultimately proves is that even the talents of a Steve McQueen and a Dustin Hoffman can be buried and even the most exciting adventure can become boring if it is too drawn out. Both McQueen and Hoffman are excellent. Their relationship (Hoffman is a bookish and eccentric forger who is shipped to Guiana with McQueen, who plays Papillon) is brought into a clear emotional focus as a deep, manly caring that ultimately helps them survive. McQueen escapes first when Hoffman is assaulted by a guard but he is brought back by bounty hunters for two years of agony in solitary confinement. He escapes again only to be recaptured and subjected to a five-year stint in solitary. In fact, he is dragged back to the colony so many times that when he makes his final escape from "inescapable" Devil's Island, the audience may find it less than climatic. What may stay with the viewer more than the dramatic escapes is the meticulous detail by director Franklin J. Schaffner of the inhuman conditions and brutality of prison life, the living death of solitary confinement and the relentless passage of time as bodies decay and minds wither. Note: "The Great Gatsby" is still playing at the Prince, which has added a new theatre, so there are now two screens where there was one before.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. All newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office. It costs 15c.

The public is invited and there is no admission charge. Works by Josquin des Pres, Johann Sebastian Bach, Johannes Brahms and a group of American composers will be sung.

Numbering some 50 voices, the Chamber Chorus is made up mostly of members of the 100-year old Princeton University Glee Club, but also includes some members of the Chapel Choir and the Freshmen Singers. The Chamber Chorus will combine with the 40 voices of the Westminster Choir, chorus in residence, at the Spoleto Festival in Italy for the final concert of the festival on Sunday night, July 7. The work is the Mozart "Requiem" and the conductor is Thomas Schippers.

The Chamber Chorus' tour will include concerts in Zurich, Salzburg (at the famous Franciskanerkirche); Vienna (Sunday morning mass at the Minoritenkirche); Venice (two appearances in the world-famous Basilica San Marco); concerts in the Lucca and Barga festivals in Tuscany, Italy; a concert in the University at Geneva; Sunday morning mass at the cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris, and a final concert on Tuesday evening, July 23, at the famous cathedral in Chartres, France. The group returns to the U.S. on Friday, July 26.

This is the latest in a series of tours that have taken Princeton University choruses, under Prof. Nollner's direction, to Europe three times, to South America once, to Mexico three times, and repeatedly to the Caribbean. "We have been very fortunate," Prof. Nollner comments. "Our concerts have been received very well, and as a consequence we have been invited to return everywhere we have sung. For example, this present tour was not difficult to arrange, because our reputation in Europe meant immediate acceptance of our concert proposals."

IT'S NEW To Us

$1 TO $1,000 ITEMS
At House of Treasure Antiques. Like many of us, when Hungarian born Liz Benedik found herself unable to settle for the furniture she could afford, she began to buy old pieces and re-do them. Her many successes caused friends to ask for help and before long Mrs. Benedik was well beyond the confines of her own home and in business. House of Treasure Antiques was located in New Brunswick for 10 years, but last December the building was torn down and Mrs. Benedik moved her business to Route One at the Princeton Circle.

The store has everything from one dollar treasures to antiques valued at over $1,000. We saw two cases of pressed glass, paintings and watercolors, silver, china, dolls, clocks, and lots of furniture. Mrs. Benedik showed us several "collectible" pieces such as a late 18th century Spanish hand-carved oak bench. The sides, apron and base are carved with elaborate figures, and the top has been caned, $250.

Glass Panels. There is also a pair of large leaded multi-colored glass panels made about 1910 that would be lovely in an archway, $300; a pine cradle that is currently holding dolls, $130; and an old railroad telephone with all the necessary parts for hooking it up immediately, $150.

In the under $50 range we noticed dome-top trunks, Victorian high chairs with cane seats, bedspread racks in cherry, walnut or pine, European copper pots, and lots of wash bowls and pitchers.

The day we visited House of Treasure Antiques they were re-arranging the store to make room for a newly arrived shipment from Europe. Here we saw a fascinating time clock made by the Gledhill Brook Company and used in an English factory; and a decorative hall rack with a narrow mirrored panel, eight hoods, and places for umbrellas, gloves and purses.

This new shipment also included a Louis XV livingroom set -- a sofa and three chairs all with a gold leaf frame. It is in need of repair, but with some imagination it would be unique, and Mrs. Benedik told us that the store can help with the refinishing and decorating.

Auctions a Source. Local estates and auctions are other sources for the store and Mrs. Benedik feels that she has accumulated many great buys. For instance there is a mahogany open armchair in perfect condition that was recently re-upholstered in a blue fabric with a small gold design, $150.

We especially liked the white ostrich feather and mother of pearl fan set in a silver-toned shadow box, $100; a four-drawer watch crystal cabinet circa 1900 that would be great for a coin, rock or shell collection, $85; and an oak door from an European palace with 16 hand-carved panels of flowers, birds and a frog, $100.

Another favorite was a tall six-sided brass plant stand, $75, and sitting on it was a brass bowl already filled with a fern. The store, especially the entrance, is filled with plants and these are for sale too.

House of Treasure Antiques is open Monday through Saturday from 10 to 5, and Sunday hours should begin soon.

It's New to Us

RUGS STEAM CLEANED. At Carpet Cleaning Center. Although Bob Parham started Carpet Cleaning Centers of Princeton two and a half years ago, it was only last fall that the company branched out from commercial jobs to the residential level.

The service is the first in a chain of nationwide franchises headquartered in Newark under the name of Carpet Cleaning Centers of America. Three more centers are opening in northern New Jersey, and they all use the latest steam extraction methods of cleaning.

Mr. Parham told us that steam cleaning is preferable to the old method of shampooing because not only does it do a deep cleaning, but when finished it also removes the residue of soap. Nothing is left behind in the carpet.

There is a minimum charge of $22.50 and this includes a 9 x 12 rug or smaller. Estimates are available and the job can always be done within 24 hours. There is an answering service around the clock, so if a drunken dinner guest spills a drink at 3 in the morning, call and leave a message.

Maintenance Program. Carpet Cleaning Centers of Princeton also offers a maintenance program which is economical and well worth it for your best rugs. Rugs today are very expensive and obviously will look their best longer if they are cared for.

Each quarter the rugs are mechanically brushed to remove the surface dirt and to bring back the luster. There is a $10 minimum for each visit and again this cleans a 9 x 12 rug. In addition, Mr. Parham feels the rugs should be deep-cleaned yearly and for unexpected accidents there is an emergency spot service.

Salvage work can also be done, and Mr. Parham has worked with rugs that have been unfortunate enough to be caught in a fire or flood.

Carpet Cleaning Centers of Princeton is also part of Minority Business Consortium Inc. MBC Inc. was started by Mr. Parham and several stockholders as an umbrella to consolidate fragmented minority businesses and to provide the resources necessary for success.

Independently owned businesses can join MBC Inc. and find the help they need for bonding, insurance and other specific problems. Currently there are four businesses in this group, one of which is Total Service, a building and grounds maintenance company, also owned by Mr. Parham.

Carpet Cleaning Centers of Princeton and MBC Inc. are located at 92A Nassau Street (above the bus station), and the office is open from 9-5 Monday to Friday. However, you can call 924-1291 anytime day or night.

Brushing your teeth after eating pays in terms of the money you save, the time, the energy, as well as the appearance of your teeth. Every person should have two brushes for alternate use. They should be kept clean, and permitted to dry between brushings. A satisfactory toothbrush has a flat surface for brushing, firm bristles, and a head small enough to permit easy access to all surfaces of the teeth and gums. To keep the teeth and gums in a healthy state, it is important to brush them properly immediately after eating.

Plymouth Valiant.

14 years ago, when we put our first Valiant on display, it got a lot of attention. It was part of a new breed of small cars that offered good, solid value in a compact size and featured easy handling and parking, nice low price, room for six inside, plenty of trunk space and good gas mileage on regular fuel. Since then, 2.3 million Valiants have been sold. So we figure we've been doing something right. And naturally, Valiant's good gas mileage is part of it. One good reason why America's No. 1 selling compacts come from Plymouth. Stop in at Joyland today and we'll show you plenty of other reasons. Come to Joyland for 8 great small car buys. It's a Joy!

Nine Graduate from Food Service Course

When the nine women and one man received their diplomas for their participation in the food services preparation course sponsored by the Princeton Adult School it became the occasion for a reunion with former graduates.

In an unprecedented display of enthusiasm and esprit de corps, former graduates of the course not only were present at the festivities held Wednesday, May 29 at Princeton House, but helped prepare a feast to soften the palates of the most demanding gourmets.

Also on hand to join in the festivities, of which the repast was only a part, were students' families, their employers, and Princeton Adult School board members. Guest speaker was Frank Germaine, food service director, Mercer Medical Center.

For the past four terms this course has been given by the Princeton Adult School, with enrollment totalling from 16 to 22 persons each term. This past term, at the request of the students who wished to speed up the 90 hours required for the certification, the spring session was lengthened from 10 to 15 weeks and ran two evenings per week for two hours a session.

Is this course necessary? The answer is a definite yes. For certification and participation in Medicare and Medicaid programs for nursing facilities, the Federal government requires that the person in charge of food service be a graduate of a state approved course and have a minimum of 90 hours of classroom food service instruction.

Princeton is one of five areas in the state where such a course is given. This past year Passaic, Asbury Park, Woodbridge and Slickerville have conducted similar courses. Outlined and arranged by the American Dietetic Association, the coordination for the program is undertaken by Sister Jean Delores Kilsheimer of St. Mary's Hospital in Passaic.

The program aids health administrators who have trained persons in charge of their food service. As an indication of their acute interest, some of the participating institutions pay part of the course fees, or reimburse the students for half the certification, the spring session was lengthened from week upon his graduation from Rutgers University. The book is a biography of Mrs. Kriz's aunt, the distinguished painter Suzanne Drouet-Reveillaud, who died in 1970 at the age of 85.

Suzanna Reveillaud Kriz, 46 Bayard Lane, has received a certificate of merit and a prize of 500 francs from the French Academy for her book, "L'Odysee d'un Peintre."

Frances J. Walstad, of 286 Shadybrook Lane, has been elected to Alpha Lambda Delta, the women's honorary society at Indiana University in Bloomington.

That she has evinced a warm rapport with her students was given proof-positive last week when a high percentage of former graduates turned the event into a reunion as well as a graduation, and even helped prepare the food!

One grateful former graduate is Mrs. Annie Ford, of Trenton, whose nine grandchildren and one grandchild attended the December '73 graduation. She has been promoted from dietary assistant to junior food supervisor at Princeton Medical Center.

Graduates. Similar success stories could occur for the spring graduating class, who have given Ms. Kathleen Wertz, their teacher, the same warm accord. The lone male receiving a diploma this time was Winfield Merrick, of Trenton, who works at the Princeton Medical Center. Other Princeton Medical Center employees receiving diplomas included Lucie Brearley, of Princeton, Clarette Eldridge, Hattie Sharpe, Dorothy Brown and Barbara Elie, all of Trenton Carrier Clinic's Ellen Cuning, of Belle Mead, was awarded a diploma as was Trenton resident Lottie Rhodes who works at Princeton University. Also receiving a diploma was Betty Hutchins, of Trenton, an employee of the Helene Fuld Hospital.

The Princeton Adult School, which itself is a non-profit organization of area residents, offers "The Food Service Worker - Preparation for Advancement" as part of its community service courses. The Princeton Regional Board of Education offers the use of the high school building and services for this and other adult school courses.

I
YOU
KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Did you know that a boxer who once held the light-heavyweight championship of the world was actually completely blind in one eye—yet he was able to win consistently? He was John Henry Lewis who was a champion in the 1930s. Despite being blind in one eye, Lewis was knocked out only once in his 103 professional bouts.

Do you know what the big league baseball record is for one player coming to bat the most consecutive times without getting a base hit? The record is held by Bob Buhl, who in 1962 came to bat 70 consecutive times without getting a hit.

Here's an amazing fact from baseball. As you know, it's extremely rare for a player to bat over 400 for a season, but did you know there was once a major leaguer who actually averaged over 400 for five straight years? Who was it? Answer is Rogers Hornsby. In 1921 he hit .397. In 1922, .401. In 1923, .384. In 1924, .424. And in 1925, .403. That figures out to a 5-year average of .402!

I bet you didn't know that you need a special insurance card if you are going to Quebec, Canada, this summer. This also applies to the Maritime Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Acadia and Prince Edward Islands.

Graduation Losses in Tiger Football Light, But Road Back to Ivy Contention Is Rugged

When the Princeton Class of 1974 is awarded diplomas Tuesday, 20 of its members will be football players whose departure will create problems in varying degrees as the Tigers look toward next fall and the start of a long climb upwards to the respectability that the sport has normally known here.

Fortunately for the problem-plagued Princetonians—confronted as they are by facts ranging from the three-year lack of an established quarterback to awareness that better material exists on the campuses of most of their traditional opponents—the graduating seniors are not largely irreplaceable. Of the 29 who began last season on the roster, for example, three who were listed as probable starters were no longer on the squad by mid-November for reasons of injury or personal choice, and three others rarely saw action above the jayvee level.

Of those whose departure will create the biggest gaps, five were regulars on the offensive line, two more were major bulwarks of the defense and three others alternated as starters in the defensive back junior and senior years to climax three seasons as a member of the varsity. This pair will be difficult to replace in both experience and size, the latter quality a continuing Princeton shortcoming. Also graduating will be Yanik's replacement, 195-lb. John Meighan, who saw limited action for three seasons and did not win a letter until his final year.

Guard: The biggest gap of all is created by graduation of Captain Bill Cronin, a 6-3, 235-lb. three-year letterman. Jake McCandless moved him to tight end in his junior year, but he was switched back when Casciola arrived on the Princeton scene and proved the wisdom of the move by earning All-Ivy honors as a guard last fall.

Most of the gains credited to Tiger ball carriers through the middle of the line were in large measure Cronin's work. A fine athlete, he was a three-year goalie for the lacrosse team and earned second All-Ivy rating there this spring.

Center: Jim Rafeedie played in a reserve capacity for two seasons but was ready to move into the starting assignment for his senior year. Good strength and a fine attitude helped overcome the problem of blocking defensive linemen who markedly outweighed his 205-lb. frame. Departure of four of the five interior linemen who were regulars last year makes their replacement the most pressing problem created by the departing seniors.

Backfield: Kerry Brown, a three-year letterman like Cronin, is the lone regular among last year's quartet of starting backs who must be replaced. His immediate future lies with the Chicago Fire of the proposed World Football League. Brown's 14 pass receptions against Colgate in his junior year and 31 for the 1972 season both set records here.

The backfield corps will also be depleted by graduation of Howie Baetjer and Romero Perkins, running backs, and quarterbacks Fred Dalzell and Jim Flynn. All four saw considerably more action as juniors than they did in last year's games, although Dalzell did conclude his career as the principal backup for sophomore Ron Beible.

Defensive End: Jim Shaw, a two-year letterman who often stood out during the disastrous season that saw the Tigers yield three touchdowns or more to seven of their nine opponents. Versatile enough to play as a linebacker and on both sides of the defensive line during his career here, he was also a three-year letterman in lacrosse.

Linebackers: Tony Riposta, an athletic rarity in that he earned six letter (football and baseball) during his Princeton career. Last fall, he was second in team tackles made with 87 and his graduation ranks as the key loss in the defensive secondary. Another senior linebacker is Roger Yannetti, whose career was largely slowed by injuries, including absence throughout his junior season.

SPORTS in Princeton.

field. That pares to 10 the major replacement problems facing Coach Bob Casciola and his staff.

While the number is relatively small, the fact that the offensive line must largely be rebuilt for the second year in a row is a clue to the Tigers' long-range problems. Victor in only one of their eight games last fall, and held to two touchdowns or less by seven of their nine opponents, they had little scoring punch and the degree to which they can improve on offense next season is a major question mark.

By positions, these are the key players whose Princeton careers have drawn to a close.

Split End: Bill Skinner, who takes with him the career record of 75 pass receptions, a figure so high that it broke by 21 the old mark that had stood since the legendary George Sella bowed out as wingback in 1949. Equipped with a fine pair of hands and able to run the pass patterns well, Skinner was accorded a place on the second All-Ivy team in his final year.

Tackles: Karl Chandler, 6-6, 235, and Glenn Yanik, 6-1, 225, both starters. Occasionally benched by injuries during his career, Chandler won two letters at Princeton but impressed scouts for the New York Giants more than he did the coaches in the Ivy League. The latter failed to accord him even honorable mention in balloting for the all-star team, but the Giants gave him $1,000 to sign and promise an $18,000 salary if he makes their 40-man squad.

Yanik also won letters in his

Hackensack in '76

Princeton and Rutgers will play the first intercollegiate football game in the Hackensack Meadows complex, opening the 1976 season there. The assumption is that the stadium (future home of the New York Giants) will be completed in time, and belief that it will be jointly held by Gov. Byrne, Athletic Director Royce Flippin and his counterpart at Rutgers.

If it comes to pass, it will be the first time that the two teams which inaugurated the sport at the college level in 1869 will play on a neutral site. The occasion will coincide with the nation's bicentennial, and hopes are that television will record the occasion.

year, are all seniors. All had fine speed and good diagnostic ability, but their average height was under six feet, making it difficult to defend against the likes of Penn's 6-3 Don Clune and Harvard's 6-7 Pat McNally, the All-Ivy split ends.

Princeton's long range hope is that the Class of 1978 is about to bring considerably greater football ability to the campus than the 1974 takes away. Early indications are that this may be the case, but the cake will require a long time in preparation for the oven and more time thereafter to bake. The fans, meantime, are warned that they can expect to continue on starvation diet, with tasty crumbs few and far between.

TIGERS COULD HIT

But Pitching. Fielding Wavered. A Princeton baseball team that batted .188 a year ago, with very few of its members hitting their weight, raised its average to .303 this season and boosted its won-lost record from 14-17 to 19-10-1.

In contrast to the anemic averages of last spring, five players topped the highly-regarded .300 mark -- paced, appropriately enough, by designated hitter Kevin Kaufman at .389. Others in the charmed circle were Ed Kuchar, .361; Tony Riposta, .346; Kevin Plunkett, .338 and Ken Beytin, .315. Riposta and Beytin as seniors have finished their careers but the other three have two more years ahead of them.

The Tigers' problem, in a word, was Harvard. Twice the Orange and Black journeyed to Cambridge, the first time losing a doubleheader and then returning for a playoff game, which it dropped, 5-3. The last defeat cost the league title.

To go with the .303 batting average, Princeton fielded at a commendable .951 mark. The difficulty, however, was that the errors cropped up at the wrong time -- unearned runs played a major part in both the defeats hung by Harvard on sophomore Mark Softy.

Softy had the most decisions, 6-3, and over two seasons at Princeton, is now 14 and 3. His ERA, however, is 3.57, leaving room for a downward trend in his junior year.

Mike French, a classmate who showed steady progress, was 5-2, with the lowest ERA on the six-man staff (.178), and junior Scott McHenry also won 5 while losing three and allowing 2.73 runs per nine innings. So the Tigers have numerous players who can hit and three pitchers who won 16 games among them all returning. If they can withstand the heat in the kitchen, they can take it all next year in Eastern League action.

BASEBALL ORDEAL ENDS

Blankenbush To Step Down. The long, long season for the Princeton High School baseball team, which had begun so auspiciously with two straight victories, came to an end last week when the Little Tigers lost three times in three days.

After the final game Thursday against Notre Dame, PHS coach Don Blankenbush confirmed that this season--his second--would be his last. After those first two wins, the Blue and White went into a season-long tailspin, winning only one and tying one of its next 16 games, to end with a 3-14-1 record. Last year, PHS was 4-13. "It's been a long season," agreed Blankenbush.

Although the season turned sour, Blankenbush, captain of his high school and college baseball teams in his senior year, stressed that he was not stepping down because of his record. "I told Francisco (Frank Francisco, PHS athletic director) at the start of the year," he said, "that it was more than 90 percent likely that this would be my last."

Coach of the PHS baseball

THE WATCHING IS OVER for PHS baseball coach Don Blankenbush, looking on as his team lost its final game last week to Notre Dame. Blankenbush announced that he was stepping down as coach after two seasons.

jayvee team for several years before he took over for Harry Zoll, who had coached the sport at PHS since 1956. Blankenbush said at the time that he was looking forward to being a head coach for the first time. But he took over a sport that PHS has failed to excel in for some time.

Its been more than 10 years since the Little Tigers compiled a winning season: in 1963, they won 10 and lost 9. Like Zoll before him, Blankenbush watched as other sports such as lacrosse, track, tennis and golf competed for the number of available athletes. A number that has been steadily dwindling as former sending districts were phased out.

PHS has dropped from a Group 4 to Group 3 school and is on the verge of falling into Group 2. Such classification is based on the male student enrollment.

Good Nucleus to Start. Still Blankenbush had begun the season with a solid, experienced nucleus of John Mooney, George Reynolds, Steve Kopp and Bob Zinsmeister. Certainly after its fine start PHS seemed a shoe-in to better its record of the year before.

What went wrong? "For one thing, we lost a lot of one-run games," Blankenbush pointed out. Or games in which PHS had an early lead only to lose it in the late innings. "We had Lawrence 4-0, only to lose it 5-4," cited Blankenbush as an example. Lawrence is the most successful team in the County this year, winning 22 of 23 games.

Another example could have been Princeton's final home game last Wednesday against Hunterdon Central. PHS led, 1-0, going into the last inning, only to watch in frustration as Dave Witt hit a two-out triple to score two runners who had gotten on by an error and pinch-single.

Over a long season, these things tend to even out but in an 18-game schedule, they can mean the difference between winning and a 3-14-1 season.

Another strike against PHS was pitching. The staff was too thin, consisting only of Mooney, Reynolds and Pete Watson. Needed badly were one or two relief pitchers to protect those early leads when the starters began to tire. Blankenbush had none.

There were discipline problems, too. Blankenbush had to cut one starter from the squad in mid-season. Five other regulars sat out two games near the end for breaking training rules.

For Blankenbush and the players the 1974 season was one long disappointment.

Reynolds Doubles. Against Notre Dame Thursday in the final game, both teams scored one run in the first, Princeton getting on the scoreboard when Larry Howell walked, advanced on a passed ball and came home on Reynolds' double off Irish hurler Bob Kikorski.

The Irish won it in the third. Tom Voyda singled off losing pitcher Pete Watson, stole second and third (Notre Dame engineered six stolen bases off PHS catcher Eddie Volz) and came around on a triple by big Joe Drulis. Joe Bedard then singled Drulis home, the fifth hit off Watson. The final score was 4-2.

Drulis, incidentally, is the son of Joseph Drulis of the PHS administrative staff. He rubbed more salt in the Little Tigers' wounds when he tripled again in the sixth but this time he was left stranded.

Princeton scored its only other run in the fourth without a hit. Mooney walked. Two consecutive wild pitches sent him around to third, from where he scored on Don Seitz' deep fly to center. In the fifth, Howell belted a shot to deep left but was held to a ground rule double when the ball scooted through an open gate in the fence. He was later cut down at the plate when an attempted double steal misfired.

The previous day, Reynolds was the hard luck loser in the 2-1 loss to Hunterdon Central. Reynolds gave up only four hits and struck out four. In the field, his teammates played errorless ball and collected six hits off pitcher Doug Reichenbach, including a pair of singles by Reynolds.

But Princeton managed to score only once when Zinsmeister singled home a run in the third. Reichenbach (4-1) struck out eight.

Last Tuesday, Steinert, which finished second in the Mercer County League, showed why it entered the game with .316 team batting average. The Spartans pounded Mooney for 13 hits and seven runs for a 7-1 victory.

Steinert pitcher Mike Pustay limited PHS to four singles (Howell, Seitz, Mooney and Eric Jahn) and Princeton's lone run was unearned. Steinert scored in every inning but the first.

In the final standings of the Mercer County League, St. Anthony's won its first title with a 10-2 mark. Steinert was second with 8-3 followed by Ewing (8-4), Notre Dame (5-7), Hamilton (4-6), Trenton (2-8) and PHS (2-9). Princeton's two league wins were over Trenton and Hamilton.

HUN WINS STATE CROWN
In Baseball. For the second time in three years, the Hun School baseball team has won the Class A championship of the New Jersey Independent Schools Athletic Association baseball tournament.

Hun defeated Lawrenceville, 4-1, last week, the team to which it had lost in the finals last year, behind its pitching ace Dave Clark who won his ninth victory without a loss. "The boys really wanted this one. I have never seen them play better," said Hun coach Bill McQuade. "It was a really gratifying year for me and the team." Hun finished with a 13-4 record.

Hun scored twice in the second, combining singles by Jeff Petrone and Jack Porcelli and a wild pitch by Lawrenceville hurler John Cowell. Then after the Larries had cut the margin to one by scoring their only run in the third on a single, stolen base and error, Hun came back with two more in the fifth.

Clark, Porcelli, Petrone and Paul Soderman all singled and Lawrenceville contributed to the rally by committing its second error. "We were able to come up with the big play at the right time," said McQuade.

A NATURAL ATHLETE with unlimited talent is the way PHS coach Marc Anderson describes senior Freddie Wilson who wasn't even out for the team last year because he played on the PHS baseball team. Wilson competed in the 100, 220, 440 and long jump and was the top scorer on the team.

In all, Hun rapped Cowell (6-3) for 11 hits including three each by catcher Porcelli and first baseman Petrone. Clark limited Lawrenceville to four hits—two each by Alex Waugh and Lou Lauricello.

The popular McQuade, who had led Hun to the state title three years ago in his first year with a victory over St. Benedict's, said that Hun's success had been a surprise for the boys and himself.

Before the season had started, he observed that he felt he had the hitting but it would all depend on how well the players up from the jayvee squad would perform and—most crucial—how the pitching would stack up. The year before, McQuade has lost Paul Creamer who had compiled a standout 10-1 record.

"You don't expect to replace a pitcher like that but here comes Clark and wins nine games. I don't think anyone expected Dave to win that many," said McQuade. "Two pitchers. 19-1 record." mused McQuade, still shaking his head over the unexpected. "How long can you keep on doing that," he asked.

A timely question, because McQuade loses his entire mound staff this year. Clark and Jon Vidabeck (2-3) graduate. Sophomore Joe Herrmann (2-1) who would have led the staff next spring, is moving to Colorado.

In addition, McQuade loses centerfielder Dave Pone, who with Clark co-captained the team, and third baseman Mark Schwartz. A three-year veteran, Pone batted .400 this year. "I really hate to see him go," said McQuade.

Trani, Cathel Co-Captains. McQuade announced that Tony Trani, a fine defensive shortstop this year, and Lonnie Cathel, a hard-hitting second baseman, who McQuade has nominated for the all-state prep school team, will co-captain the Hun nine next year.

Also back to form a solid nucleus is Petrone, who batted .320 and "did an outstanding job at first base," said McQuade, when last year's starter, Biff Hollowell, did not come out for the team, and Porcelli.

Porcelli, only a sophomore, is perhaps the biggest surprise on the team. Described by

Sets Record in 880

Kathy Woodbridge of the Princeton High School girls track team claimed a state title this spring when she won the Group A 880-yard run in a sectional meet held in Ocean Township.

She set a new PHS record, as well with her time of 2:21.9, as she pulled ahead of the field in the last 10 yards. "She ran a beautiful race," said her coach, Lamont Fletcher.

The best the Little Tigers could do was a sixth by Pete Nichols in the two-mile. Royce Flippin, who has been bothered by a bad knee, also failed to qualify in the two-mile and John Woodside missed in the mile.

Mark McLean had failed to qualify in the pole vault earlier in the week. He managed to clear 12-6 to tie his best for the season, and just missed 13 feet, said PHS coach Marc Anderson.

Anderson made no attempt to hide his disappointment, however, in the failure of his runners to advance. All, he said, had done much better during the regular season.

His greatest losses through graduation will be Freddie Wilson, the team's top point-scorer, and Woodside and Nichols. He still has a trio of fine long distance runners returning in Flippin, Tim Anderson and Morgan Snyder, and in Mike Bolster, a good athlete who ran in their shadow, said Anderson, and who should come into his own next year.

PHS also will lose very little in the weight and field events where it was weak this season. "Hopefully, we'll get better there and be able to replace some of the runners we're losing but you don't replace a Freddie Wilson," said Anderson.

"I have to do some big recruiting," he continued. "I think there is a lot of talent in the school; you just have to go out and get it." This was Anderson's first year as head coach.

MOONEY STOPS EWING

In Legion Start. John Mooney and Princeton Post 76 got off to an impressive start in the opening game in the Mercer County American Legion League Saturday when Mooney shut out defending champions Ewing Post 314, 2-0 on six hits.

Mooney, a member of the Princeton High School mound staff for the past three years, struck out 11 and walked only two in nine innings.

The game was scoreless until the sixth when Post 76 punched across one run. In the eighth, Bob Zinsmeister, a PHS teammate of Mooney's, tripled and Chris Crane sent him home with a sacrifice fly. The victors had five hits off two Ewing pitchers, Rich Stoneking taking the loss.

END OF THE LINE

For PHS Lacrosse Team. Princeton High School's first-time entry into the public school state lacrosse tournament ended abruptly last week when it lost to Hanover Park, 12-2, in the first round. Hanover had defeated PHS earlier in the season, 11-1.

Although the season under new coach Bill Cirullo did not have a happy ending, it was still a Cinderella year for the Little Tigers. They finished with an overall record of 8-6 and their number five ranking among all state public high schools "was something the kids were very proud of," commented Cirullo.

Cirullo said that he felt his squad played well in the first half against favored Hanover

AIMING FOR THE STARS: Tom Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Knox, Mountain Avenue, and Rod Plummer, former quarterback for the Princeton University football team, are both members of the New York Stars, New York's entry into the new World Football League. Plummer has signed for this season and will probably play defensive back, while Knox is on the administrative side helping to promote the new team in the New York area. The Stars open against the Birmingham Americans on Wednesday, July 17, and will play their home games in Downing Stadium on Randall's Island.

Park but the upstate team "just had our number." Hanover Park was up; they were hot. And officials told me when Hanover Park is hot—forget it."

From a 5-0 halftime margin, the victors netted seven more goals in the second half. Princeton's only scores came off shots by Rich Warfield and Ron Campbell. Mark Campbell finished as the leading scorer for the team, followed by Ted Baruch.

Graduation Toll Heavy. Cirullo will lose a good chunk of his team through graduation. Five of his first six midfielders will depart: John Figueroa, Mark Solomon, John Willis, Warfield and Ron Campbell.

The loss of Baruch and Mark Campbell will leave a big hole at attack, Guy Mendelson, the top defenseman also goes, as does goalie Keith Rendall. "I'm going to need a good recruiting program next year," agreed Cirullo.

Looking back, Cirullo said that he felt the team had accomplished a lot. "The kids were really wrapped up in the program. They were fantastic to work with, there were no discipline problems the entire season—that was a joy." In a sense, more rewarding, Cirullo commented, than any trophy could be.

This summer Cirullo will participate for one week in a lacrosse camp at Princeton Day School. Coaches from perennial national powers in the sport—Maryland and John Hopkins—as well as Army, Washington and Lee and the University of Virginia will be on the teaching staff.

"I can't imagine a better hit 3-3 for Firmenich, while Jerry Daniels went 3-4 for NAPLC. And finally Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Labs beat Ingersoll Rand 16-9, with Ted Terpstra hitting a homer for GFDL. Winning pitcher was Russ Sinclair.

LEADERS BOTH WIN

In Business Softball. Educational Testing Service and Cities Service Research continued undefeated in the fifth week of play in the Princeton Business Softball League.

ETS gave ERC an 18-6 drubbing with Jerry Murphy continuing his home run string with one in this game. John Barone joined Murphy with a home run, and Bill Degler hit 4 for 4 for the winners.

Cities Service won a close contest by defeating winless Princeton Day School 8-6. Bob Lewis hit 3 for 3, while Charlie Gandy hit 2-3 for Cities. Bob Hoffman kept the game close for PDS by hitting 3 for 4 with a homer.

McGraw Hill beat RCA(A) 9-4 in a close match in which Jim Morris, Tom Wood, and Ang Vasti all hit two for three for the winners. Meanwhile RCA(B) downed American Cyanamid 9-5 on a three-run homer by Bob Miller, with Al Triano contributing three hits for four times at bat, and winning pitcher Phil Heyman hitting 4 for 4.

Forrestal Research Center breezed by National Computer Analysts 16-8 with John Ruzak hitting both a triple and a home run, and John Frangipani getting four hits off of winless NCA.

First National Bank of Princeton won easily over United Jersey Banks 19-6 on the strength of hitting by Tim Kearns (4-5), Dave Tessein (4-5), and Wes Cawley (3-3). Tessein and Cawley had homers, and combined for 11 of the 19 RBI's.

Firmenich squeaked by North American Phillips Lighting 9-8 in a game with good hitting on both sides. Tom Hummer hit a homer for the winners, while Bob Schantz had one and Kevin Mullins had two for the losers.

Bob Elkins and Jerry Sheerin hit 3-3 for Firmenich, while Jerry Daniels went 3-4 for NAPLC.

And finally Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Labs beat Ingersoll Rand 16-9, with Ted Terpstra hitting a homer for GFDL. Winning pitcher was Russ Sinclair.

Proof of Mercer County residency is required. Each applicant must have a listed co-owner from Mercer County and they are limited to two courts.

Reservations will continue to be accepted at the Park Commission offices in the County Administration Building during the week of June 17. Non-county residents, who are limited to reserving only one court, may sign up at the Park Commission offices during the week of June 24. After July 15, Mercer County residents may reserve a third court. This court will not be included in the three of six races, but finished third for the day, beaten by Tom Huntingdon and Hera Kwiatkowski.

BUSY SEASON PLANNED

In Community Tennis. Parents of advanced tournament players of the Community Tennis Program have made plans for the various summer activities.

Junior high and high school students of varsity level ability should register in the Advanced Tournament Group. Classes meet three hours a day, five days a week, comprising a morning instruction period and an afternoon practice drill session. Under the direction of Bill Foreman and top Princeton University varsity tennis players, this is an intensive training program for juniors interested in competitive play.

For those interested in tournaments, transportation will be arranged to several area events. In addition, a supervisor-coach will accompany the youngsters to these matches and provide students with a match analysis. Gold Cup and Silver Cup players are also eligible for this supervised transportation and should check with their instructor for information and schedules.

The regular David Cup League activity of the Program is open to all advanced juniors. All Advanced Tournament, Gold Cup and Silver Cup students are reminded that this year the Davis Cup League will organize one week earlier than usual. They should check with the instructor the first week of class or call the Community Tennis Office for placement on a team.

Besides classes for the advanced players, registration for summer tennis instruction is now in progress for juniors and adults of all ages and ability levels. The Program's summer brochure may be obtained in all sporting goods stores, the Recreation Office and from all area school physical education instructors. Inquire at the Princeton Community Tennis Program office, 71 University Place, or call 924-4343 for full details.

SIX BRAVE RAIN

For Sailing Club Races. Only six Sunfish sailors faced Sunday afternoon's dismal rain, but they sailed seven races. Five of them were won by Walt Gibson, who carried the day Jack Kunz was second, and Dick Jessor third.

On the preceding Memorial Day weekend, light winds gave the Lasers seven races, resulting in the following order of finish: John Henderson, Bob Holzman and Doug Boone. In the Sunfish a third court. This court will not be included in the three of six races, but finished third for the day, beaten by Tom Huntingdon and Hera Kwiatkowski.

Next Sunday will be the spring family picnic. Two regular races will be sailed, followed by special two-man races in which the normal skipper may crew, but not touch the tiller.

GOLF TOURNEY SET

Open to County Residents. The Mercer County Men's Championship Golf Tournament will be held on Wednesday, June 5, at the Mountain View Country Club. Rain date is June 17.

The event is open to all county residents ages 18 through 59. Tee-off time is from 8 to 1.

Interested persons may sign up either by phone or in person. There is no entrance fee. Post entries will not be permitted. Defending champion is Craig Hannas, golf pro at the Hun School. He won last year with a 75.
